Axis Powers Turning Guns Toward Africa

Observers Say Island Attack Is Hitler Stall

London—(AP)—A concentration of at least two Italian divisions was reported on the Libyan frontier near the Mediterranean coast today and British military circles declared "It looks as though the Italians are ready" to advance into Egypt in a large-scale campaign for realization of one of Mussolini's dreams—possession of Suez.

Official circles at Cairo denied, however, that the Italians already had crossed the frontier.

"The only Italian officers presently on Egyptian soil are one general and 818 officers and other ranks—prisoners," said a semi-official statement at British headquarters in Egypt.

(Yesterday's Italian communiqué said the British were put to flight "during a clash of advanced troops beyond the Cirenaican-Libyan border.")

Military circles in London said the two Italian divisions were concentrated in the Bardia area, adjacent to the Egyptian frontier.

This concentration is opposed by a small mobile British force of expert desert fighters who have been carrying out the first phase of the operations in Africa, a sort of guerrilla warfare of lightning raids, skirmishes and reconnaissance expeditions.

Britons Warned
Britons were warned today by the Daily Express, which is owned by the minister for aircraft production, Lord Beaverbrook, that they may expect "some Italian successes" in the war in Africa.

These signs of an impending offensive against Egypt, which would have as its ultimate objective the severing of the British Empire's control of the eastern Mediterranean, coupled with a triple threat against British Somaliland, raised the belief in many quarters that the axis' next big objective is the continent of Africa.

In the eyes of these observers the reported preparations for the attack on England is for the purpose of diversion.

A bitter struggle between the British and Italians in Somaliland was forecast by military circles, who said the main Italian column is striking at Berbera, on the coast of the Gulf of Eden.

There was a lull in German air activity over Britain last night and early today.

Britain's forces facing the 250,000-strong Libyan army are outnumbered but their control of water supplies and their experience are considered compensating factors.

Objectives
The Express said Britain "must concentrate on: (1) Ensuring the ultimate collapse of Mussolini's African empire by cutting off supplies from Italy; and (2) preparing to resist invasion here."

Only a few German bombers were reported over the British Isles during the night. Two districts in England and the Bristol channel area were bombed but the British government said "damage was negligible and there were no casualties." Leaflets containing Hitler's "peace or destruction" ultimatum also were dropped in the Bristol channel area.

British wondered about the lull, speculated that Adolf Hitler's blitz machine is not yet geared up, but said the blow must come soon if it is to come at all this year.

A German radio broadcast singled out London as a "big target" for Nazi air power aiming at dock destruction along the twisting Thames.

Attack Palestine
Rome—(AP)—Italian planes were reported today by the high command to have bombed the port of Haifa in Palestine for the third time in a widespread air attack on British positions on the near east and Red Sea zone.

Naval bases at Aden and Berbera, on the Gulf of Aden, also were reported subjected to "an effective bombardment."

Gasoline storage tanks were set afire and port facilities damaged in the attack on Haifa, a communiqué said.

England Will Hike Purchases in U. S.

Washington—(AP)—The British government started negotiations here today for "hundreds of millions of dollars" of tanks, artillery, and other war supplies in addition to all previous allied orders.

Arthur B. Purvis, chief British purchasing agent, who presented the program to treasury Secretary Morgenthau, told reporters that his government was now seeking the purchase of many types of supplies not purchased previously in this country.

He emphasized tanks and field artillery.

The British, previously bought some old artillery that the United States army had left over from the World war, but the new program is for new weapons.

He declined to estimate to what figure the new program might expand total British purchases in this country, but previous purchases, mostly airplanes, amounted to well over $1,000,000,000.

The British agent went on to explain that the new program was for material to be delivered a considerable time in the future.

He indicated that previous purchases had been made, to a large extent, on the basis of immediate needs, and that new programs were being shaped on anticipated future needs.

Must Buy Here
London—(AP)—A government spokesman told Britain today that to win the war she must now "embark on a much more extensive program" which must be related to the American national defense preparations.

Excess Profit Tax Proposed

New Levy Would Take 25-40 Per Cent for Program of Defense

Washington—(AP)—An excess profit tax bill was offered today by a house sub-committee today in an effort to raise $300,000,000 to $500,000,000 a year from corporation earnings under the defense program.

The new levy would range from 25 to 40 per cent on certain proportions of industrial profits.

Coupled with it was a plan to let the cost of plant expansion for defense purposes be charged off against company earnings within five years, at the rate of 20 per cent a year. Should the emergency end earlier, the annual deductions would be proportionately greater.

House and senate committees will begin joint hearings on the legislation Friday. They may be ended in three or four days in order to hasten action on the complicated bill.

Wauwatosa Doctor Facing 2nd Charge

Milwaukee—(AP)—The preliminary hearing for Dr. Lester A. Van Ellis, 40, Wauwatosa physician charged with manslaughter and suicide following the sleeping pill overdose of his wife, has been postponed to Aug. 27.

Mrs. Van Ellis wrote to District Attorney Herbert J. Steffes that she died from an overdose of sleeping tablets, blaming her husband as being responsible for the act she planned.

Dr. Van Ellis originally was charged with manslaughter in failing to take preventive measures when he learned his wife had taken the tablets. Steffes yesterday amended the complaint to include a charge of adultery with a Milwaukee woman, named in Mrs. Van Ellis' letter to the prosecutor.

Girl on White Horse Against Draft Bill

Washington—(AP)—Elaine Summers, attired in a Paul Revere costume and mounted on a gray mare named Daisy, rode up to the capitol steps today and handed Senator Holt (D-W. Va.) a petition against the pending conscription bill.

Miss Summers, 20, came here from Chicago on behalf of the emergency peace mobilization committee to defend America by keeping out of war.

City May Use Reid Bequest to Improve Land for Golf Course

County Judge Fred V. Heinemann yesterday construed the will of Estelle Reid as permitting the use of $10,000, given the city for playground and park purposes, to develop an addition to the municipal golf course.

Fred Felix Wettengel, who appeared against the city at the hearing, held that the will stipulation that the money be used exclusively for playground and parks did not include a golf course. Wettengel said he would appeal the case.

The city plans to purchase 52 acres of land east and west of the present golf course from a number of owners for $12,000. The council

Senators Would Stop Coercing Men for Funds

Demand Law to End Forcing Donations to Political Campaigns

Washington—(AP)—Demands for legislation to prevent corporation officials from coercing employees into making political campaign contributions came today from two members of the senate campaign expenditures committee—Senator Miller (D-Ark.) and Tobey (R-N.H.).

Miller said he would ask the committee to make an immediate investigation in connection with a complaint lodged by Senator Byrnes (D-S.C.) Tobey commented that he could see no reason why specific legislation could not be recommended within a short time.

Byrnes told the senate yesterday that "corporation friends" of Wendell L. Willkie were attempting to force employees to contribute to the Republican nominee's campaign funds.

He produced a letter which he said had been sent to 600 Detroit employees of the S. S. Kresge company by C. P. Tuttle, an official of the firm, asking for donations to aid Willkie.

Both Play Game
Tobey called this "an interesting bit of evidence," but added:

"Both parties play the game the same way. It is a reprehensible practice that ought to be stopped, and I for one am going to do everything I can to stop it."

Byrnes' demand for an investigation climaxed a political discussion during which Senator Van Nuys (D-Calif.) gave reporters a statement declaring that Senator Guffey (D-Pa.) had employed "dirty, mendacious partisan politics" in telling the senate earlier this week that Willkie had been christened "Lewis Wendel Wilkus" and had changed his name.

Van Nuys said he knew from personal acquaintance with Willkie's parents that this was untrue.

To Managers Only
Detroit—(AP)—Carl B. Tuttle, vice president and treasurer of the S. S. Kresge Co., said today that a letter soliciting from employees contributions to the Willkie-for-president campaign fund was "neither a touch nor a command."

He said the letter went only to 265 managers and department heads in the company's 80-odd Michigan stores, and not to the 28,000 rank-and-file employees of the company throughout the country.

"It merely offered them an opportunity to make a contribution to the Willkie campaign through me if they so desired," Tuttle said.

Sift Evidence Of 5th Column

California Jury Links Murder With Activity of League

Los Angeles—(AP)—The county grand jury dug into evidence concerning "fifth column" activity in southern California today as, specifically, it sought to determine the circumstances surrounding a 1935 waterfront slaying.

With District Attorney Burton Fitts predicting that evidence would show "boring from within" by members of the Communist party, one of the first witnesses summoned was John Leech, former Los Angeles organizer for the Communist party and more recently a witness before the Dies congressional investigation committee.

The prosecution said Leech told the grand jury that communities organized the Hollywood Anti-Nazi league as a rich source of funds from motion-picture figures. It was announced also that among 45 witnesses summoned were film comedian Lionel Stander and director Herbert Biberman, husband of actress Gale Sondergaard.

The district attorney's office said Leech told the grand jury that membership of the Anti-Nazi league grew to 3,000 in Hollywood, and at the time of the Hitler-Stalin pact had its name changed to the Hollywood League for Democratic Action.

3 Men Killed in Illinois Crash

Danville, Ill.—(AP)—Three men were killed and four others injured today in a collision of two automobiles 10 miles west of Danville on State Route 10.

The dead were James A. Richards and Theodore Cannon of Elmhurst, Ill., and "Shorty" Hines, a Negro who lived in Champaign, Ill.

Edward Haarden of Elmhurst, who was riding with Richards and Cannon, was hurt seriously. Charles Manley, Celess Rhodes and Orville Pickens, all Champaign Negroes, also were injured.

Site Is Selected for New Prison Hospital

Waupun, Wis.—(AP)—Prison officials announced yesterday that a new hospital at the state penitentiary would be erected on the site now occupied by the residence of Warden John C. Burke. The warden's new home will be built on a deep water while wading.

Arms Expansion, Home Guard Defense Goals

U. S. Would Set Up 60 New Plants

Washington—(AP)—A permanent munitions industry, owned largely by the federal government and capable of supplying an army of 2,000,000 men, emerged today as one of the major goals of the defense program.

Robert P. Patterson, new assistant secretary of war, described as an "innovation" the idea that most of the projected 60 ordnance plants to be built with government funds would be established on a permanent basis.

Traditionally, the United States has maintained a system of government arsenals which formed the nucleus of a munitions industry but which was not capable of rapid expansion in an emergency.

To prepare better for future crises, Patterson said that the new powder, loading and storage plants would be designed for long life. He made it plain, however, that they would be operated only for such periods as are necessary to prepare the required stocks of munitions.

Money of Plants
The army already has been given $244,000,000 of the $700,000,000 required for the new plants and has contracted with the Dupont interests to operate a $25,000,000 powder plant in southern Indiana.

Discussing the army's decision to locate the new plants chiefly in the area between the Alleghenies and the Mississippi Patterson said they not only would have greater protection from enemy air attack, but the requisite supplies of water and coal needed for powder manufacture could best be obtained in relatively few parts of the country.

Officials said the government's 11 arsenals could supply only about 10 per cent of the army's munitions needs but that rather than greatly expand them, it was deemed more advisable for the government to construct the new plants and lease them to private industry under "management operation" contracts.

Stabbed Body of Woman Is Found
Springfield, Mass.—(AP)—The gagged and stabbed body of Miss Rose Lodi, 22, attractive employee of a Springfield match company, was found today, partly disrobed, in a roadside-thicket.

The body, which bore stab wounds in the throat and chest, was discovered by the girl's father, Angelo. She had been missing since yesterday, disappearing while enroute to her employment.

The area in which the body was found, police said, is frequented by vagrants, known to authorities as "wood dogs."

Germans Have New Beer; Kills Thirst But Has No Alcohol

Berlin—(AP)—Germans have begun drinking non-alcoholic beer as a beverage that can quench their thirsts and even be consumed at work "without detrimental effects."

An idea attributed to abstemious Adolf Hitler and converted into reality by German chemists, it has just begun to flow from thousands of beer-taps.

How it is brewed is a secret, but it looks like beer, tastes like beer and contains the same ingredients—except the alcohol.

The new beverage, production of which has been fixed temporarily at 1,000,000,000 gallons a year, is said to fill a gap left by wartime restrictions and rationing of coffee substitutes, milk and tea.

Nazi press advocates say the basic idea was to create a "common beverage" which is "appetizing, has the stimulating effects of beer and quenches the thirst without possessing the tiring influence of alcohol."

It is delivered in ordinary wooden kegs and flows from the tap carbonated like real beer.

Titled Englishwoman Captures Parachutist

London—(AP)—A titled Englishwoman, Lady Buckland, widow of Lord Buckland and sister-in-law of Lord Camrose, publisher of the London Daily Telegraph, today captured a Nazi aviator who had been roaming England nine days.

Lady Buckland came upon the aviator as she motored along a country road near Bristol.

Noting his unusual appearance, she questioned him and then marched him off to the authorities. The German flier had been at large since he bailed out of his disabled plane. The military and the police had sought him continuously after his plane fell.

Boy Drowns

Shelbygan—(AP)—John Richard de Marce, 11, drowned yesterday in the Pigeon river when he stepped into deep water while wading.

TWO MOUNTAIN CLIMBERS RESCUED—Faye Plank, of Bremerton, Wash., a school teacher, and H. Carl Boyer, of Seattle are shown at the Glacier Ranger station after reaching safety from the precipitous heights of Mt. Shuksan. Miss Plank told of spending 24 hours on the mountain keeping a vigil over Anne Cedarquist, an injured companion, while Boyer went for help. Miss Cedarquist was injured when she slipped and fell during the climb.

Shawano Woman Dies Of Car Crash Injuries

A mother and daughter will be buried together at Shawano Saturday as the aftermath of a collision of two cars at Leppa's Corners, the junction of Highway 45 and 10 six miles west of Appleton, Sunday morning.

Mrs. Frank Evans, 52, 614 E. Division street, Shawano, died at 12:15 this morning in Appleton from injuries received in the crash. Her daughter, Dorothy, 18, succumbed yesterday.

District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr ordered an inquest into the death of Mrs. Evans, with the same jury that acted yesterday. The official inquest date has not been set and will await recovery of the four other people injured in the accident.

Frank Evans, husband of the woman who died this morning, and Glenn Schlingerman, Green Bay, were the other occupants of the car which was involved in a collision with one driven by Leander Wood, Mankato, Minn. Wood was accompanied by his wife.

Mrs. Jennie Bothwell, 69, Clintonville, died last night in an Ironwood, Mich., hospital of injuries suffered late yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which she was riding left the highway near Hurley, Wis., and overturned six times. A blowout caused the accident.

Ruth Bothwell her daughter, and Mrs. Viola Hansen, the driver, both of Chicago, were seriously injured. Mrs. Hansen is the daughter of

Thousands Marooned In Louisiana Storm

New Orleans—(AP)—Gathering force as it struck inland, a tropical storm slashed at the Louisiana coast with 70-mile winds today and full hurricane warnings were ordered from Lake Charles, La., to Sabine, Texas.

Thousands were marooned by the storm as it skirted the Louisiana coast. Nineteen persons were reported missing but later were found safe.

Dollar Day Bargains to be Offered Shoppers Thursday

Exceptional bargains on summer goods and unusually low prices on new fall merchandise will be offered shoppers of Appleton and vicinity Thursday as merchants of the city cooperate in another popular Dollar day.

The bargain event is being held earlier this year to give shoppers an unprecedented opportunity to obtain goods at considerable savings. Wayne R. Jones is chairman for the bargain event, assisted by Royall La Rose, Ray H. Eichelberger, and Henry E. Williamson.

The need for summer goods for at least another month or two, the excellent quality of merchandise offered, and the savings available to shoppers indicate that Thursday's Dollar day will be one of the most successful and busiest on record.

Participating Stores
Following are the stores that will participate:

The Pettibone-Peabody company, Railroad Salvage Furniture company, Badger Point Store, Kobussen Clothing Store, A and P Super Markets, ABC Super Market, The Fashion Shop, Hilda A. Wunderlich's, Green's, Lutz Ice company, Matt Schmidt and Son, Wall's Pharmacy, Heckert Shoe company, Allen Oil

Senate Nears Balloting on Guard Order

Washington—(AP)—A movement to form a "home guard" composed primarily of world war veterans gathered headway in congress today as the senate approached a vote on the bill permitting the president to order the national guard into active training.

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) asked the senate military committee to begin work Friday on legislation authorizing formation of state militia units to replace guardsmen called into federal service.

The measure, he told reporters, probably will follow generally plans outlined yesterday by President Roosevelt at a Hyde park press conference.

Mr. Roosevelt said the organizations probably would be built around a nucleus of trained men furnished by the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Whether the federal government would be called on to furnish equipment and to aid in training the groups was a question yet to be settled, Sheppard said.

Senate debate on the national guard bill was interrupted yesterday by a fiery argument between Senators Holt (D-W. Va.) and Minton (D-Ind.) in which the words "liar" and "slacker" were shouted, but leaders set a time limit on speeches in order to get a vote late today.

'Love Feast'

Members of the house military committee decided today to call five more witnesses, headed by Secretary Knox, to testify on the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill.

Although Chairman May (D-Ky.) announced that hearings had been closed last Friday and the committee voted, 11 to 10, in a stormy session yesterday not to hear further testimony, the members decided at what was described as a "love feast" this morning to reverse themselves and proceed with brief public hearings.

In addition to Knox, General John J. Pershing, Harry Woodring, former secretary of war, Louis Johnson, former assistant secretary of war, and Hugh Johnson, newspaper columnist, will be heard next week, probably Tuesday.

In the senate, Minton precipitated a heated exchange when he arose to shout, after Holt had attacked the conscription bill, that he was "getting impatient with being lectured by a slacker family."

Senators Argue

Holt quickly dubbed "malicious lies" Minton's charges that Holt's father had opposed sending food to the soldiers in France in the World war, and Minton's assertion that Holt's brother had been "hidden away" in South America at that time to avoid the draft.

"If ever the administration wants filth to be thrown," Holt added, "they get the senator from Indiana to throw it."

"And," Minton shot back, "when Hitler wants it thrown, you throw it."

"No, no, not at all," Holt replied. Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, quieted this outburst, but the argument between the two was resumed later when Minton read copies of a West Virginia paper and congressional documents which he said proved the truth of charges he had made against Holt's family.

First With Idea

St. Paul—(AP)—Governor Harold E. Stassen disclosed today that Minnesota several weeks ago completed detailed plans for a veterans defense home guard like that suggested on a nation-wide basis yesterday by President Roosevelt.

The governor said he had telegraphed the president informing him of the Minnesota plans. The defense force, based on veterans of previous wars and organized with the cooperation of veterans organizations, would be designed to fill in if the national guard is called to emergency duty.

The Minnesota plan was begun about two months ago when the governor conferred with leaders of veterans organizations. It calls for a force of about 4,000 men and 300 officers of units to be organized around present national guard armories.

Moscow Agrees to U. S. Reservation

Washington—(AP)—Russia's new $10,000,000-a-year trade agreement with the United States includes a reservation permitting a reduction in purchases if American defense requirements force curtailment of exports.

The state department announced that the agreement was signed yesterday in Moscow.

Except for the defense reservation, the agreement was described as the same as the pact in effect for the past year, during which Russian purchases greatly exceeded $40,000,000.

Stark Trails As Urban Votes Go to Truman

Missouri Governor
Falters After Early
Lead in Senate Race

St. Louis.—The two men who bore the brunt of "bossism" outcries from their opponents in the Missouri primary rode a swelling tide of city votes toward victory today in their bids for the Democratic nominations for senator and governor.

Incumbent Senator Harry S. Truman, who tagged far behind Governor Lloyd C. Stark in rural precincts, soon outstripped the governor when the urban votes began coming in from St. Louis and Kansas City. He nosed ahead by a slight margin that became substantial after three-fourths of the voting places had reported.

There still were enough missing precincts to shift the trend, however, and an outpouring of Stark votes could send the governor back into the lead he enjoyed in the early hours of last night. Maurice M. Milligan, the third man in the race, was tagging along behind—a poor third.

Portly Lawrence E. McDaniel, the St. Louis excise commissioner whose race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination had the backing of Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann's "city hall" organization, held a comfortable lead over State Senator Allen McReynolds, in almost every section of the state.

Carries Home Town
His home city poured votes into his column at a 3-to-1 clip and he had the lead in 58 out-of-state counties. McReynolds was ahead in Kansas City when only about half the Jackson county precincts had been counted.

The veteran senator who challenged McDaniel's candidacy as an attempt by the "Dickman machine" to supplant the fallen Pendergast organization at the state capital, had an advantage in several of the heavily Democratic "Little Dixie" counties north of the Missouri river, but most of the vote was counted in those sections.

Forrest C. Donnell of St. Louis appeared certain of winning the Republican gubernatorial nomination even before half the state's 4,447 precincts had reported. He had upwards of 114,000 votes then and was approaching a 100,000 majority over his nearest opponent, J. Grant Frye of Illinois.

In the Republican senatorial contest Marvel H. Davis of Kansas City moved steadily ahead of six opponents, jockeying a mounting lead that seemed almost certain to win him the nomination. His nearest opponent, David M. Proctor, a fellow townsman, was trailing him by thousands of votes.

Admits Kidnaping, Robbery are a Hoax

Madison.—(P)—Arthur Roy Mercer, 44, Janesville World War veteran, was found by police last night in an automobile in front of the Tenney building with his arms and legs tied to the steering gear and blood streaming from a gash in his head.

He told officers he had been kidnaped in Janesville by three men who spoke German. He said they robbed him of $6 and he overheard them planning to rob the governor's mansion here.

A police guard was maintained at the mansion until 4 a. m. today when, according to Sheriff Edward A. Fischer, Mercer admitted his story was a hoax. He was turned over to Rock county authorities.

Says Governor Heil Didn't Keep Promises

Black River Falls.—(P)—Otto P. Christenson, Progressive candidate for attorney general, accused Governor Julius P. Heil of breaking campaign promises in a speech here last night.

"When Governor Heil was campaigning in Wisconsin two years ago he promised to reduce taxes, raise pensions, improve highways, assist conservation, raise educational standards, assist farmers, increase employment and give the state a business administration," Christenson said. "He has broken his word in every instance. When a man's word is no good he is not fit to be governor of this state."

Demand for American-Made Cheese Increases 10 Per Cent

A 10 per cent increase in the demand for American-made cheese, apparently resulting from the disruption of European trade routes due to the war, is reported by the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

As a result, the exchange sees a considerable boost in the demand for Wisconsin cheese during the next year, with Outagamie county's quota placed at 14,250,000 pounds.

These facts were brought out in a talk yesterday by Oscar W. Olson, educational director of the Chicago exchange, at Sheboygan.

The European war has cut sharply into cheese shipments to the United States and England is taking virtually the entire Canadian surplus.

Olsen pointed out in his talks that during the period 1915 to 1918, the United States average exports of cheese were $4,700,000 pounds, compared with less than 2,000,000 pounds annually in recent years. If war conditions continue over coming months, he said, there is a strong probability that America again will be exporting cheese heavily.

Endorses Willkie's Proposal to Spread Industry Over Nation

Milwaukee.—(P)—Fred H. Clausen, candidate for the Republican United States senatorial nomination, endorsed last night the proposal of Wendell L. Willkie for decentralization of industry by spreading it more extensively in small communities.

"I have lived in small communities all my life and I can testify to the importance and value of spread of industry to smaller communities, from the point of view of efficiency of production and better living conditions for employees, but to mention a more even spread of national income among the small business men," Clausen said.

"It is a suggestion that should be followed in times of peace as well as in times of war."

"I am in accord with Willkie's policies toward better conditions for the farmers as well as for industry."

County Will Get $81,000 In Road Aids

State Is Making No Promises About Date of Payment

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison.—Although they are not making promises about the date of payment, state officials today had computed the amount of county trunk road aids due to the counties on the basis of their total county trunk mileage and registration of motor vehicles.

Payment of the aids has been the center of a minor political controversy in the capital in recent weeks.

Progressives allege that the reorganization of the motor vehicle division has so disrupted procedures in the division that the computations have been delayed. Administration authorities reply that the aids will be paid this year not much later than in previous years.

Originally Governor Heil had made arrangements to pay the $4,490,725 sum in installments over several months in order to relieve the strain on the slender state treasury balance. Recently, however, Charles McKeown, financial secretary in the governor's office, announced that the obligation would be paid full on the date due.

The aids are paid on the basis of $159 for each motor vehicle registration, which is given a 40 per cent weight, $25.04 a mile for all highway mileage exclusive of city and village roads and streets, which is given a weight of 60 per cent, plus $65 a mile for each mile of county trunk highways.

Figures on aids due the counties in the Appleton area follows:

County	Trunk Mileage	Total Payable
Brown	238	$38,442
Calumet	97	15,524
Manitowish	145	23,215
Outagamie	326	51,925
Waupaca	218	34,854
Shawano	275	43,782
Winnebago	288	45,841

'No Sling Shot War' Eberlein Says in Talk

Washburn, Wis.—(P)—"This is no sling shot war and America cannot defend herself with sling shots," Michael G. Eberlein, Republican candidate for United States senator, told a Washburn audience last night.

"We need the most powerful munitions, the finest airplanes, the strongest navy that our resources can command—not to fight upon European soil, but to defend America," Eberlein declared.

$2,000,000 Yacht Is Released From Reef

Little Current, Ont.—(P)—The $2,000,000 yacht Delphine II, owned by Mrs. Horace Dodge Dillman of Detroit, left this Manitoulin island port today after having been released last year from a reef near South Baymouth.

The craft was released by a powerful tug from Sault Ste. Marie after three local tugs and the ferryboat Norman had been unable to budge it.

NAZI TEST SPRINGBOARDS OF WAR—The British press has warned its readers that German raids of the past few weeks have been little more than tests of the blitzkrieg springboards set up in Nazi occupied territory. This Associated Press map indicates six bases, five of them on captured territory, which may be used when the "real attack of waves of 500 planes" gets underway. Northeast England and Scotland are threatened from bases at Bergen (1) and Stavanger (2). The Helgoland base (3) is within bomber range of East Coast ports, while Helder (4) threatens industrial centers. The nearby channel ports (5) may be the hopping off place for actual invasion, although Cherbourg (6) is only 90 miles from Southampton.

War Situation Today

Duce May Be Ready to Risk 'Make or Break' African War

Italy gave every indication today that Premier Benito Mussolini was ready at last to risk the battle which may make or break his African empire.

Reported troop concentrations on the Libyan-Egyptian border close to the eastern Mediterranean shore, jabbing blows at Kenya and British Somaliland, and air raids on Haifa, Palestine, and other British positions in the Near East strengthened the belief that the "hour of destiny" of which Mussolini spoke two months ago upon the declaration of war was at hand.

The British were even warned to expect some Italian successes in the African campaign. The opinion was noted in some quarters that the threat of a Nazi blitzkrieg against England was perhaps nothing more than a diversion in the strategy to conquer the African continent, seize the Mediterranean and the Suez canal and thus break the British empire's life-line to the Far East.

At the same time Virginia Gayda, authoritative fascist editor, declared

Churches Defer Proposed Union

Lutheran Conference Votes to Continue Discussion, Study

Chicago.—(P)—The Lutheran synodical conference decided yesterday to defer final action on proposed union with other large Lutheran bodies and to continue, instead, discussions toward that end.

Resolutions adopted at closing sessions of the conference's 37th biennial convention held that various phases of the proposed welding of doctrinal matters remained to be clarified and results of further negotiations should be resubmitted to the conference.

The conference requested the presidents of the four synods comprising it, the Missouri, Wisconsin, Norwegian and Slovak synods, to devise ways and means for "continuing close cooperation" between different church union committees of the conference.

Negotiations for the proposed union have been in progress for five years between the Missouri synod, one of the nation's largest, and the American Lutheran church, and for several years between the latter and the synodical conference. The United Lutheran church also has the matter under consideration.

The American Lutheran church presumably will discuss church union at its convention Oct. 8 to 18 in Detroit. Reports from that body and from the synodical conference probably will then be presented at the next biennial convention of the Missouri synod in June, 1941, at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Leave for Camp

Names to Nomination
Petition of Party

Beckley, W. Va.—(P)—Oscar O. Wheeler, communist candidate for governor of West Virginia, faced a prison term of six to fifteen years today for fraudulent solicitation of names to a nominating petition seeking to place Communist candidates on the state's November ballot.

A jury of coal miners convicted the 54-year-old goat breeder and former locksmith after deliberating less than two hours last night.

Criminal court Judge Harley M. Kilgore sentenced Wheeler immediately to one to ten years in the state penitentiary after overruling defense motions to set aside the verdict and arrest judgment. In addition he imposed another sentence of five years for a second offense conviction.

Wheeler was accused in nine indictments, but was tried specifically on a charge he had obtained the name of Alex Davis of Beckley to the Communist ballot application by fraud. The second offense charge was based on Wheeler's sentence to Leavenworth prison for refusal to accept military conscription in the World war.

The middle-aged farmer, who broke down and wept on the witness stand, denied he had misrepresented the Communist petition to prospective signers. He also denied making a statement attributed to him by a prosecution witness—that the communists would win the state election "if we have to win it with bullets."

Prosecutor W. A. Thornhill appealed to the jurors to regard the trial as a "fight between you and your children and Russia."

Defense counsel Harold O. Houston of Charleston, W. Va., told the jury:

"If you convict Oscar Wheeler you convict civil liberty."

Proposes Air Unit Not Controlled by The Army and Navy

Racine.—(P)—James E. Finnegan, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator asserted last night that America needs a separate department of air, whose control would be separated from the army and navy.

Finnegan, former state attorney general, suggested that such a department should be directed by a cabinet member in cooperation with the secretaries of navy and war.

Finnegan declared no effort should be spared in building up a naval, air and army defense which would withstand attack by any and all foes on all sides but that such an instrument should be used only in defense. He said that "not one of our American boys should be forced to shed their blood on foreign soil."

Broadcasters to Drop Music Under Control of ASCAP

San Francisco.—(P)—The National Association of Broadcasters yesterday endorsed the policy of its board to resist control of popular music by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

The convention supported the position of President Neville Miller that member radio stations discontinue use of music controlled by ASCAP if the society imposes a sharp increase in fees charged the broadcasters for use of music.

The sense of the convention was that unless ASCAP changes its attitude the broadcasters will on Jan. 1 terminate relations with the society, and use only music developed through its own organization—Broadcasting Music, Inc.

Approve Extension

Madison.—(P)—The Lake Superior District Power company received authority from the public service commission today to extend its rural electric lines 9½ miles in the towns of Worcester and Emery in Price county. The extension will cost $7,000.

FILM TRAPS MOBSTER'S WIDOW—Mrs. Elsie Feinstein (right) claimed she did not know the men accused of killing her gangster husband, but she was held in $25,000 bail in New York on perjury indictments when a motion picture film presented by the prosecution showed her on a beach in Florida with Charles Workman and Albert Tannebaum, accused members of the New York murder syndicate. She is shown with her attorney, Joseph Wohl.

Italian Move Threatens British Empire Solidarity

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York.—(P)—Mussolini's attack on the British in Africa serves the logical purpose of compelling England to conduct two crucial, big-scale military operations simultaneously, thereby dividing her strength at a moment when she needs all she can muster for home defense against Hitler.

The Italian campaign represents more than that, however—assuming that what we have seen thus far is a serious offensive and not a feint. It is a blow at one of the very foundation stones of the British empire—control of the vast Mediterranean area and the Suez canal.

Of the three places at which the Duce is striking simultaneously, the push against Egypt from Libya is by far the most vital. The drives into Kenya colony and British Somaliland from Ethiopia do not at this juncture present any real menace, though they undoubtedly would were he successful in Egypt and the Sudan.

Were the Italians to overrun Egypt and capture the Suez canal it would represent a disaster of the first magnitude for the English. Among other things it would mean England's domination of the Mediterranean would be smashed. The imperial lifeline via Suez to India and the other great dominions of the Far East would be severed.

By the same token, British influence in the Orient would be dealt a terrific blow, thereby giving Japan the chance she wants for hegemony. England would lose her control of the Near East and her powerful hold on the great Arabian population.

She also would lose control of vast oil fields in the Persian gulf region. She would lose her influence with Turkey—guardian of the strategically important Dardanelles.

British opposition to a possible German offensive down through the Balkans would be removed, and those Dardanelles might come under Hitler's control.

Strangely enough, though, should this catastrophe be visited on England it wouldn't necessarily break her blockade of Europe. So long as her navy could control the oceans, and prevent shipping from entering the Mediterranean through the narrow strait of Gibraltar or the Suez canal, the blockade would still be tight. I mention this merely as an interesting possibility, and not as predicting that England would be allowed to carry it out.

The task which Mussolini is undertaking is Herculean. It wouldn't be surprising to see him meet with considerable success in Kenya and Somaliland. Egypt, however, is a horse of another color.

While the British are said to have some 250,000 for the Egyptian show and a similar number for other operations they have strong bases and their soldiers are largely seasoned African fighters. They also control the water supplies, which is a big item in desert fighting.

One handicap which is likely to cause Mussolini trouble lies in his supply line. That, of course, must pass through the Mediterranean to Italy and thus his ships will have to run the gauntlet of British naval guns and bombing planes.

But while there are drawbacks, Mussolini has a tower of strength in his commander—Marshal Rodolfo Graziani. He is one of the most adroit of the desert warfare leaders of history. It was Graziani who, shortly after the World war, turned the tide for the Italians and enabled them to conquer Cirenaica and Libya.

D.A.V. Expenditures For Convention Okayed
Madison.—(P)—Expenditures of $1,049.29 by the Disabled American Veterans Convention corporation for the national D. A. V. convention at Green Bay were approved today by the secretary of state.

The money will be paid out of a $10,000 appropriation voted by the last legislature. Items totaling $58 were disapproved on the ground they were not strictly connected with the convention program.

Wisconsin Coach Will Be Given a Hearing
Madison.—(P)—Ralph Hunn's protest against his dismissal as University of Wisconsin crew coach will be aired before the university athletic board at a special meeting at the Madison club Thursday night.

Hunn asked for the hearing and sought permission to have members of the university crew testify in his behalf but it was understood this request had been denied.

Gov. Ratner Nominated At Kansas Election

Topeka, Kas.—(P)—Gov. Payne Ratner, a veteran campaigner at 43, and William H. Burke, a novice at 61, were nominated for governor in yesterday's primary election.

Ratner, a Republican serving his first term, polled 150,935 votes to overwhelm Jay A. Welch, Haddam Banker, with 18,344, and C. D. Lank, Wichita pickle manufacturer, with 18,086. These returns were from 2,039 of the state's 2,735 precincts.

Burke, a Democrat and former internal revenue collector for Kansas, received 63,705 votes in 2,080 precincts. His only opponent, S. L. Mathews, Kansas City lawyer, had 17,756.

Kansas re-nominated all of their seven congressmen—six Republicans and one Democrat. U. S. Guyer, Republican, the only congressman who had opposition, easily defeated Miss Chloe Matteson, Kansas City.

Birt Quits Madison Job
Madison.—(P)—Charles J. Birt, executive secretary of the Madison Community Union since 1926, has resigned to become associate secretary of the Minneapolis Council of Social Agencies, President P. S. Brandenberg announced today.

HUNTER SWIMMING POOL—An idea of the bottom contours of the Hunter swimming pool to be built at Erb park is shown in the top picture. The pool is shaped like a gigantic saucer and is circular. The water slopes from the shore as it does in a natural lake and reaches a depth of 2 feet, 2 inches at the 10-foot mark. The water at the protective fence, 35 feet from the shoreline, is 4 feet, 4 inches deep. In the center area surrounding the diving pier, the water is 9 feet deep. The lower picture shows the deep area in the center of the pool, the protective fence keeping non-swimmers from deep water and the central island on which the diving boards are mounted.

Hunter Pool Shaped Like Saucer Circled by 25-Foot Sand Beach

Appleton's proposed swimming pool, the Hunter pool, is claimed to be the most recent scientifically designed pool in the country.

The inventors, the Hunter Swimming Pools, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind., describe it as "a radical departure from the prevailing pool designs of former years . . . the most revolutionary development in swimming pool history."

The pool selected for Appleton will be 150 feet in diameter and the Hunter firm claims that 1,800 persons can use the pool at the same time.

A representative of the firm was expected in Appleton today to present the plans and specifications to the board of public works for study and revising. Work on the pool is expected to start before September.

Because the Hunter pool combines a swimming pool and a bathing beach affording recreation like a seashore, the pool has been named the Hunter Seashore pool. It is circular and shaped like a gigantic saucer and its concrete bottom forms the entire pool. It has no walls like tank-type swimming pools.

Shoreline Like Lake
Instead of abrupt retaining walls such as are seen in the old familiar tanks, the Hunter pool has a shoreline similar to a small lake. From the edges the bottom slopes gradually towards the deep water which lies in the center of the basin.

In the center of the pool is a circular concrete island, 20 feet in diameter, on which the spring board are arranged like the spokes of a wheel so that all the divers plunge away from each other. The Hunter firm claims this cuts down accidents and enables more people to use the boards at the same time.

Rising from the center island is a high mast on top of which is a lighting fixture with five acorn-shaped floodlights which light the pool at night. A spray nozzle connected to a high pressure water line can be turned on to form a mist cloud high over the pool. In the sunlight this forms an artificial rainbow and at night projection machines may turn the mist into an aura of colors.

Address System

Near the base of the mast is a steel canopy containing three radio amplifiers through which life guards may make announcements and maintain a continuous broadcast of popular music to entertain patrons.

Built into the walls of the island are a number of round glass ports, resembling the portholes of a ship. By peering out of the portholes, life guards can see under water in the deep section to spot swimmers who might be in trouble, Hunter says.

The deepest water in the pool surrounds the diving tower. In the pool to be built in Appleton it will be nine feet deep in an area 30 feet from the base of the island. This section of the pool is surrounded by an ornamental steel fence which projects a few inches above the surface of the water and extends all the way to the bottom.

The fence, Hunter says, is scientifically designed to provide a positive barrier and yet prevent the possibility of injury to bathers. At intervals there are gateways through the fence with signs reading "deep water."

Large Wading Area
All water outside the fence is wadable and therefore is considered safe even for non-swimmers. The wadable area in the Appleton pool will be 35 feet wide around the deep area with the water sloping from the shoreline to a depth of 2 feet, 2 inches 10 feet from the shore and 4 feet, 4 inches 35 feet from the shore.

The Hunter water circulation system feeds water into the pool from the bases of ornamental vases spaced around the circumference of the pool. The outlets are in the center of the pool. The system utilizes a re-circulating system whereby the water in the pool passes through a complete water conditioning plant every eight hours. This plant is composed of pumps, filters and chemical treatment equipment. On a small scale it is similar to the plants for the purification of city drinking water.

Surrounding the pool is a 25-foot sand beach which is cleaned periodically by flooding the sanded area with the water in the pool. The pool may be used as an ice rink in the winter, Hunter claims.

Although the pool has no walls for turns in competitive racing, the deep water fence may be removed and turning boards installed for racing events.

The pool will cost $47,709.

Hull Terms Bank Loan Authority Vital to Defense

More Lending Power For Import-Export Bank Is Essential

Washington—(7)—Secretary Hull told the house banking committee Tuesday that a $500,000,000 loan authority for the export-import bank was "essential" to United States cooperation in the "economic defense" of the western hemisphere.

A telegram from the secretary of state was read to the committee when it opened hearings on an administration bill to grant the half-billion dollar increase in the bank's lending powers. Loans could be made to develop orderly Pan-American marketing and to stabilize and enlarge hemisphere economic resources.

"At Havana," Hull wired, "the American nations agreed that in view of the disruption of the channels of international commerce and the curtailment of markets for certain products of the Americas, the American nations must do everything in their power to strengthen their own economic position to improve further mutually beneficial trade and other economic relations between and among themselves and to devise and apply appropriate means of effective action to cope with the difficulties, disadvantages and dangers arising from the present disturbed and dislocated world conditions."

"I consider the enactment of the proposed legislation, expanding the powers and operations of the export-import bank, essential in order to put the United States in a position to cooperate fully with other American republics in meeting these urgent needs of the economic defense in the face of the possibilities of serious threats to the peace, security and welfare of this hemisphere resulting from sinister developments elsewhere in the world."

The legislation already has been approved by the senate banking committee.

Johnson Plays Proposal to Send Destroyers to Britain

Editor's note: The daily column by General Hugh S. Johnson is being substituted for Raymond Clapper's column while Mr. Clapper is on vacation.

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

New York—General Pershing says that we ought to sell 50 "obsolete" destroyers to England to save our own country from Germany. On the same subject George Fielding Eliot says:

"The question which we have to ask ourselves is a plain one. It ought not to be befuddled by such non-essentials as whether the transfer of destroyers to Great Britain would or would not be 'an act of war.' It would be of course, but that is only an academic question. . . . The legal definitions of international conduct . . . are now obsolete."

It seems that everything is now obsolete as far as it suits the purpose of those who are hell-bent on getting this country into a war for which it is completely unprepared.

The destroyers are "obsolete." Our own engagements in treaties and conventions and the things we have always stood and sometimes fought for are, in international law, "obsolete."

As to the destroyers being "obsolete": if they are, how does it happen, as men of this opinion intimate or argue, that the battle of Britain, the fate of the world's freedom and the safety of our own country depend upon sending them to Britain? As an American officer said when it was being argued that we ought also to send over a million "obsolete" Springfield rifles, "No rifle is obsolete that will kill a man with an aimed shot at 1,500 yards—especially when you have nothing with which to replace it."

A ship doesn't necessarily become "obsolete" or "surplus" simply because it is 16 years old. We are furiously overhauling these World war destroyers and using them every day. They can't be "surplus" because we have nowhere near enough destroyers for our present fleet, let alone our proposed new one.

Nobody has shown this more clearly and honestly than Major Eliot. I don't know his qualifications as a naval expert, but applying well known published naval standards and opinions as to the proper ratio of destroyers to battleships, Major Eliot showed that practically none of these destroyers is surplus or can be taken without stripping our own navy. They are, therefore, no more "surplus" than "obsolete."

Just as a sidelight, most of them are armed with four-inch and three-inch guns, as well as with anti-aircraft guns. Except for World war 75 MM artillery (about 3-inch), cannon of higher calibre and anti-aircraft guns are what we do not have, what we most need and what we have the least prospect of getting quickly.

Wouldn't Be Kind Of War U. S. Ever Wages

In Mr. Knudsen's last progress report as published, "bottle-neck" items of procurement were discussed as well as those in which there were no bottle-necks. But he didn't mention them because the trouble there isn't just a bottle-neck. It's a needle's eye and a flock of camels.

Major Eliot is very frank and very accurate in calling the shipment of destroyers an "act of war." It is war itself. But it is vicious war—undercover war. The kind of war we have always condemned and pledged ourselves not to wage. The weakness of this position seems to me to be this: Our policy always has been not to aggressors in any war. We fight only when we are attacked or threatened.

These war minded men are put in the position of having to say, and they do say, that we are so threatened now—to the death. If that is not true, then we ought not to go to war—even to this blind-pig, bootleg war. If it is true, then we ought to go to war tomorrow—with everything we have. In a fight to a knockout you can't "hit soft."

The fact is that it is not true. If it were true, these gentlemen and Mr. Roosevelt's administration, which has given every evidence of sympathizing with them, would have no trouble at all in getting their wish and plunging us into war to the hilt tomorrow. They should not be permitted to get us in by any blind-pig entrance.

County Board Puts $5,000 in Insurance Fund

Supervisors Study Problems Arising From Plan Adopted in May

The county board yesterday afternoon appropriated $5,000 for the public liability and property damage fund and referred the matter of insurance protection for county traffic policemen to the highway and insurance committees.

Problems arising out of the county's action last May in adopting a self-insurance plan were studied at length at yesterday afternoon's session. Some supervisors were of the opinion that the county should assume only the compensation insurance risk and build up a reserve fund before taking over all insurance risks.

Anthony Droppers, Sheboygan county highway commissioner, told of the compensation insurance plan put into effect in his county in 1933. He said the county "started from scratch" and has built up a fund of $34,800 after paying claims during the period amounting to $10,227. He said if Outagamie county has taken over all insurance risks it was a "step in the right direction."

He explained that his department collected $3.50 for each $100 pay roll be it a charge against the county, state, village or township.

No Extra Help

Droppers said that his committee and office staff handled all the work connected with the self-insurance plan and that the committee abided by the decisions of the state industrial commission.

William Glasheen of the county traffic squad said that the county's action in taking on the self-insurance plan placed the traffic squad members in the "curious position" of having to secure their own insurance on their automobiles at a cost 150 per cent greater than the average or else drive without any. He felt that the county should provide some protection because the traffic policemen were subject to call 24 hours per day. He said that in the past the county's insurance on the police cars included collision, liability and property damage. Glasheen said he was told by an insurance agent that unless the county carried some kind of insurance protection on members of the squad, they could not get collision insurance on their cars.

The board adopted a resolution of the highway committee placing a road extending from County Trunk Y in Seymour to the Brown county line on the county trunk system.

Purchase of a police radio for the traffic squad headquarters was ordered.

Chamber Campaign to Enlist City Members

Members of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce are being sent blanks which are to be filled out for membership in the Mobilization for Understanding of Private Enterprise, which is co-sponsored in the city by the Appleton chamber and the National Association of Manufacturers. Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary, reported today.

In addition to the membership papers, the chamber has received a shipment of 8-page booklets for distribution among its members. The booklets explain the sponsorship and aims of the campaign which "has its origin in the conviction that economic progress will be regained in the United States only as there is created a sound public understanding of the fundamentals of the private enterprise system—fundamentals from which the nation cannot deviate and still progress."

Kiwanis Convention to Be Held August 25-27

The Appleton Kiwanis club is preparing to send a large delegation to the state Kiwanis convention at Wisconsin Dells August 25-27.

New members of the club were introduced at noon meeting today in the Conway hotel.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIFFMANN

The Problem of the Destroyers

Although Col. Lindbergh did say that the United States should offer "a plan for peace," which accepts as an accomplished fact the defeat of Britain and the Nazi domination of Europe, although he did argue that the United States can and should co-operate with this new Europe, a careful reading of his speech will disclose that he does not take quite so simple a view of the matter. For he said also that the plan "should be backed by an impregnable system of defense" because "treaties are seldom torn apart when they do not cover a weak nation."

In other words, Col. Lindbergh thinks the United States could live in the same world with a Nazi-dominated Europe providing the defense of the United States were "impregnable."

The condition which confronts us, however, is that the defenses of the United States are very far from being impregnable. So far are they from being impregnable that the Senate unanimously and the House with only one dissenting voice have voted to spend ten billion dollars on the construction of another Navy. So far are our defenses from being impregnable that the Navy, which Congress regards as necessary, cannot possibly be built before 1946, yet a Nazi-dominated Europe means that Europe would have at once, in alliance with Japan, a Navy superior to our own, and a capacity to build warships perhaps four times as great as our own. If, as the colonel says, we should propose a plan of peace to Europe "backed by an impregnable system of defense," then we are in no position to offer such a plan now.

For lacking an impregnable defense, confronted if the British fall with an immense naval superiority in the two oceans, we should be making the very error which in another passage the colonel warned us against. We should be "depending upon treaties for our national safety" during that long critical period of at least six years before we can hope to "rearm fully for the defense of America."

Time Is Vital To U. S. Defense Plans

That is why, as Gen. Pershing declared, it is so necessary to keep the British Navy in being. The sustaining of the British defense is necessary in order that "the time needed to build our own defenses may be lengthened." Since Col. Lindbergh himself declared that we can make dependable treaties with a Nazi-dominated Europe only if our defenses are impregnable, no disinterested and patriotic follower of Col. Lindbergh can afford to disregard the warning and the plea made by Gen. Pershing. If we need an impregnable defense, then we need the time to construct it, and we cannot be sure that the time will be granted us if the British fleet is sunk, or worse still, captured.

The real question is not whether it is desirable to keep the British fleet in being—in being, that is to say, as a fighting force now in Europe and in the last resort as a fighting force in this hemisphere. There are few over here who do not think the survival of Britain is important. The question is whether, without becoming a belligerent in Europe, the United States now have the means to help the British fleet in Europe or, if the worst happens, then to draw what is left of the fleet back to this hemisphere. This is the actual problem which confronts us, and the proposal to sell some fifty destroyers to Canada or Great Britain must be studied not as a sentimental or as a philanthropic gesture, but to see whether it does not offer a practical means of insuring and re-insuring our own naval position.

Could be Accomplished Without Great Gamble

It is not well informed, and therefore it is misleading, to state the problem of the destroyers as Major Eliot did in his very honest and sincere attempt to explore the issues in his Sunday article. Major Eliot's main point was that if we let the British have these ships and "it does not in fact make a difference, if Britain goes down anyway, then we may bitterly regret having thus wasted ships which cannot be immediately replaced." That would be quite true if the American government were foolish enough to deal with the matter in such a foolish way.

But why does Major Eliot assume that hard-headed men like Gen. Pershing are such misguided amateurs that they are proposing to let the British have fifty destroyers for nothing, or merely for some more useless gold? Is it not evident that if the British need those ships as urgently as they say they do, we are in a position not only to help them resist, which is our immediate vital interest, but we are in a position also to come to terms with Britain and Canada over what is to be done with at least some part of the British fleet if the British Isles can no longer resist?

Would Serve Purpose As Diplomatic Lever

Whether making available some fifty destroyers will in fact make the difference between defeat and a successful resistance, no one over here can hope to know for certain. But what we can know is this: even if these destroyers are not decisive as military weapons in the next few especially critical months, they are from the point of view of the United States a diplomatic instrument of the very first order. Properly used in negotiations with Canada and Great Britain, they can be used to obtain guarantees, by transfer to Canada from Berlin, of at least as many fighting ships as the destroyers represent; that would mean that in case the British Isles fell, Canada would still possess the nucleus of a navy. The destroyers can be used also in negotiations to obtain at once, rather than later when the confusion might be stupendous, the right to establish American naval and air bases in certain strategic British Colonies in this hemisphere.

The real difficulty in the matter is not that the United States might give away something useful and risk losing it with no return. The difficulty is that the United States may receive so much for so little that the British people may think we are taking advantage of them in their hour of need. They will be mistaken. Yet one can understand how they might think so. But if the agreement is negotiated, as in the circumstances statesmen in Washington, Ottawa and London could now negotiate it, there will be few in this country who will not feel that we have not only insured ourselves somewhat against the defeat of Britain in Europe but that we have also re-insured ourselves in case, God forbid, the British in Europe are defeated.

May Overhaul State-County Road Maintenance Set-Up

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The state's unique system of state-county cooperation in the maintenance of state trunk highways may be overhauled as the result of studies by a special committee representing the counties and the state, it was learned here today.

For many years the state highway commission has handled maintenance of state trunk highways through contracts with county highway departments, by which county crews and machinery are used.

During recent years there has been much dispute between the counties and the commission on proper compensation for the use of the county equipment.

Some county highway department officials have maintained that the state's payments are insufficient to pay for the upkeep and replacement of the highway equipment. The state department, conversely, has been anxious to keep the payments down to prevent the counties from making a profit on the transaction.

Special Committee

But neither the state or the counties, according to reports here, has ever had available adequate cost accounting records on which to compute the rental payments.

At the recent meeting of highway committeemen and commissioners in Ashland the special committee was set up to study the problem, and to recommend uniform accounting systems for all highway departments through which data may be obtained upon which to base future rental contracts.

The state annually spends between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 on the maintenance of the state trunk highway system, including the purchase of oil and other maintenance materials, but operates no machinery of its own, the commission explained.

Statistics Bureau Ready to Furnish Birth Certificates

Persons seeking birth certificates and are unable to obtain the original may receive accredited documents from the Wisconsin state bureau of vital statistics at Madison, Kenneth H. Corbett, Appleton Chamber of Commerce secretary, pointed out today.

Blanks for this purpose may be obtained at the office of the county register of deeds. Required information is filled out on the blanks, including statements from parents or physicians, and the document is notarized. It is then sent to the state bureau and a birth certificate is sent the person.

Corbett reported that a woman from Illinois who was born in this vicinity used this method in obtaining an accredited birth certificate.

Democrats Losing Ground Among New Crop of Voters

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J.—A majority of the nation's young people who will be old enough to cast their first Presidential vote in November prefer Franklin D. Roosevelt to Wendell Willkie, according to the results of a national poll just completed by the American Institute of Public Opinion. But this year's crop of new voters is far less pro-Roosevelt than the crop which cast its first vote in the Presidential election four years ago.

The political importance of the young new voters is evidenced by the fact that more than nine million people have come of voting age since the last Presidential election. Any major political party, if it is to perpetuate itself, must constantly draw into its ranks some of this "new blood." In 1936 the Democrats got the lion's share of the new vote. Today—at least at this stage of the campaign—the situation is greatly altered.

When the young new voters were asked in the survey: "If the Presidential election were held today, would you vote for Willkie or for Roosevelt?" the results were as follows:

For Roosevelt	68%	For Willkie	32%
For Roosevelt	54%	For Willkie	46%
For Roosevelt	50%	For Willkie	50%
For Roosevelt	63%	For Willkie	37%

A comparison of this vote with the sentiments of the crop which cast its first vote in 1936 shows a striking difference. The new voters in that year were more than two to one for Roosevelt.

One especially interesting sidelight is that this same 1936 crop of new voters, who will be taking part in their second Presidential election this November, are far less pro-Roosevelt today than they were four years ago. Only 53 per cent say they are going to vote for Roosevelt; this time, as against 68 per cent who favored Roosevelt in 1936.

FDR Strong With Young In Low Income Group

It must be remembered, of course, that not all the nine million young people eligible to vote for the first time this year will actually go out and vote on election day.

But even if only half of them were to cast their ballots it would mean some 4,500,000 votes, a sizable number. The problem of the Roosevelt forces is how to maintain their present advantage with the new voters, while the problem of the Republicans is how to lure a greater share of that vote into the Willkie camp. Institute polls over the past few years have consistently found the young people one of Roosevelt's greatest sources of popular strength.

The President still has a strong advantage, the poll finds, with the young people in the lower income groups. If the new crop of young voters is divided into three income categories—upper, middle and lower—the upper and middle are evenly divided between Willkie and Roosevelt, while the lower group is for Roosevelt by about 6 to 4. It works out this way:

Upper and Middle In—

Wisconsin Labor and Conscription

What is there about conscription that impels some men to look upon it as hideous and others to denounce it as a shuddering menace?

Is it wrong for the government to say to some willing man who is anxious to drop his task in a steel mill to pick up a rifle: Stay where you are because there you are of more value to your country than elsewhere.

Is it perilous to the stability of the Republic that the suffering and sacrifice made necessary by war shall be evenly and justly distributed among the citizenry?

Is it dangerous to democracy to have the government rid bar stools of constant sitters and take poolroom wallflowers out to train the sag out of their shoulders, the dents out of their chests and the pallor off their cheeks?

Do we hazard our constitution when the nation so arms and equips itself that the fever-eyed hynas of darkness conclude that we are too formidable to attack?

Is there something inherently disgraceful in a democracy doing a job once in a while in a sensible, efficient and effective manner instead of constantly stumbling around in a muddle like a run-ridden sailor?

The opposition to conscription is put as well by the executive board of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor as by anyone. That board says that conscription "would bring to a nation militarism with all its evils of regimentation" to the detriment of civil rights and liberties, and that the prevailing scheme "is merely a plan for forced labor, repugnant to all American ideals." The language rings with the droning familiarity of socialistic beerhalls. But even so it should be weighed on the scales of justice and sincerity.

The men who spoke this monstrously mistaken idea certainly know something of American history. And if they would examine their recollections they would find that never was human freedom and civil rights safer in America than when we actually had conscription.

We found it necessary in the Civil war to resort to conscription in order to put down the rebellion. And we had conscription in 1917. We would like to be furnished with a statement of the wrongs done by conscription on those two occasions. Conscription then, as now, meant safety and a workable achievement.

If we are going to have an army large enough to maintain our position of prestige in the western world it must be of the best selected material trained in the most effective manner and equipped with the most modern and deadly machinery of destruction. Of course, if we are not to have a substantial army we do not need conscription at all.

But much of the visionary opposition to conscription would end up by shelling the soldiers' fingernails, dousing them with eau de cologne and dressing them in lace pants.

Boss Flynn at the Helm

In turning over the conduct of his campaign to a Tammany chieftain, and virtually agreeing to put him in the next cabinet, the President has done one of the frankest things in his official career.

For Mr. Roosevelt knows very well that he has no chance of reelection unless the big city machines are kept oiled and smiling. If he loses such cities as New York, Jersey City and Chicago all is lost.

An administration that starts out as a puritan is now dressing up like a painted hussy. A President who liked to have his picture taken with such clean men as Justice Murphy, is now arm in arm with the worst political camp-followers in America.

To Mr. Flynn goes the distinction when he was sheriff of making Dutch Schultz a deputy. Generations hence they will be debating in this country whether Dutch Schultz or Al Capone was the greater gangster. And Dutch was a bosom pal of Hines who distributed patronage for the Raw Deal in 1936, and would probably be running the campaign today had not a young man by the name of Dewey found him out.

Of course, hundreds of millions will be spent upon the farmers. For the Third Termites never miss a bet. And why should they? Does it cost them anything?

But the place to live this fall if you want plenty of beer, pretzels, circuses and free money and women is a big city. It is just going to be one banquet after another until election day.

Pity the Father

Lane Summers, a lawyer of Seattle, has had more than his share of bitterness.

Two years ago his son was killed while fighting for the Reds in Spain. The son had been seduced by the friends of the present attorney general into making the supreme sacrifice for Moscow. A short time ago a meeting was held at Seattle in memory of the boy. But Mr. Summers revealed that the interests back of the meeting were "more Moscow" and said the entire mourning procession was just a show to recruit "more misguided martyrs."

But no sooner had Mr. Summers turned from mention of his boy than he observed his 19-year-old daughter cast in the character of Pauline Revere and set to ride from Chicago to Washington in protest against conscription. But the father fought back. He issued this statement:

"Press and pictures report that, to defeat conscription, somebody's white horse came to a Trojan stable and my 'pink' daughter, Elaine Summers, from her sophomore year in College have been cast together as characters in a Red road show routed from the 'draft'-cellar city to the nation's Capitol under the sponsorship of 'The Committee to Defend America by Keeping Out of War,' another alias for alien activity authorized by czar Stalin's agents."

"As with many plays, so in the plot of this piece of publicity, the cosmetics of comedy thinly camouflage the tartar of tragedy."

"Years ago, in real heroism, Paul Revere rode to rouse the ranks of the American Revolution. Now, with patriotic pretense, a pretty puppet is paraded to propagandize against American preparedness."

"By the historic ride the Colonies were awakened to the red coats of the British troops invading our land from without. In the present promenade the people should smell the smoke screen of the Red comrades seeking to subvert our liberties from within."

"The horse with its feet on the ground is not ridiculous, even if Pauline Revere still succeeds in straying astride somewhere between the neck and the tail. But both are without blame, which is branded on the brows of Stalin's subtle strategues who little treason in the language of loyalty."

"These Communists cover at the cry for conscription—it could uncover their 'cells.' However, most patriots approve plans to prepare for this democracy's defense, while they all pray for peace. But very few approved the war-whopping of petty Presidential politics to tatter the third-term tradition."

It would be difficult for any public prosecutor to summarize more definitely or tersely a just characterization of the loose and irresponsible forces in this country.

Perhaps only a man in agony of mind at the weakness or waywardness of his children could see so clearly.

The New Buckman Sentences

The principal Buckman officials have been just sentenced to terms of five and six years in federal court for their swindling of Wisconsin investors. These terms are to start when their present terms of one to three years expire.

The Buckmans very bitterly assailed the press of Wisconsin for their recent indictments. They said "newspapers were hounding them."

The press, of course, cares little or nothing of the Buckmans. But we imagine it is intensely interested in bringing to the attention of public officials, the courts included, that rogues who skin widows and aged men out of their life's accumulations and heartlessly turn them on the street cannot square accounts with a year or two in a penitentiary.

To the Post-Crescent it has seemed that a ten-year sentence should be kept handy for scoundrels of this class. There are judges that look upon 15 years as more appropriate. Opinions are bound to differ depending upon the facts in each case but we think the courts should with determination aim at a minimum of ten years.

Insofar as they have served to arouse public opinion against small sentences for great treachery the Buckman officials have served a good purpose.

ORPHAN CHILDREN SINGING

I hear the orphan children singing,
With happy hearts they face the day.
They do not know what Fate is bringing,
But joyfully their prayers they say.

I hear the orphan children singing,
And know that God receives their song.
Celestial chords are upward winging,
Borne on courageous winds and strong.

I hear the orphan children singing,
God's their Father and their Guide.
To His kind hand each child is clinging,
On the long road the sunbeams hide.

I hear the orphan children singing,
And as each silver note is freed,
The world can find in brave songs ringing,
The faith and courage that we need!

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—Several careful secret surveys made recently of Japanese military and naval strength indicate that Japan can do just about anything she wants in the Far East.

The reports show that the Japanese navy is in A-1 shape, and has suffered not a bit as a result of the Chinese war. The Japanese army also is in good shape, though not in the same condition as the navy. The Chinese war, though still dragging on at heavy cost, has been an excellent training school for the Japanese military.

Chief handicap under which Japan suffers is her desperate economic situation. Easiest remedy for this is to take the Dutch East Indies and the wealthy possessions of the Dutch, French and British in Southern Asia.

This is what seems sure to happen. There is no question but that the Japanese can take French Indo-China, the Dutch possessions of Java and Sumatra, and all the other South Pacific islands that are worth bothering about, in a few weeks.

Only spot which might hold out is the British naval base at Singapore, and naval experts disagree as to whether the Japanese could take it or not. In time, they probably could.

Everything now seems set for the Japanese to blitzkrieg against Britain. Probably the Japanese will wait until they see how the blitzkrieg is going before they stage theirs in the South Pacific.

TNT—DON'T TOUCH

Nebraska Republicans are very enthusiastic about Wendell Willkie, but they want no speech by him in McCook, home town of Senator George Norris, the state's veteran public-power crusader.

Such a plan was reported shortly after Willkie arrived at his Colorado vacation spot, which is near McCook. News dispatches declared that the GOP standard bearer intended to beard the father of TVA right in his own home town. But the idea did not thrill Nebraska Republican leaders.

They have a wholesome respect for Norris vote-swinging powers, recall vividly how four years ago in a three-cornered race which he entered at the last moment he polled 53 per cent of the vote.

So last week a delegation made a pilgrimage to Willkie. In the group were Kenneth Wherry, state chairman; George Carpenter, national committeeman; Hugh Butler, candidate for senator, and Dwight Griswold, candidate for governor. They received a cordial welcome and discussed a number of subjects, prominent among which was a strong argument as to why Willkie should not make a speech in McCook.

It was pointed out that Norris is not up for re-election this year, that he is busy in Washington and not likely to take an active part in the Nebraska campaign unless baited into it. And they vigorously counseled that this be avoided if possible.

"There is no need stirring up Norris if we don't have to," advised State Chairman Wherry. "He can cause a lot of trouble."

SUE SCARE

The shipload of congressional and other guests had a gala time on the maiden trip of the new U.S.S. America, but they also got the scare of their lives.

The incident arose out of a chance remark during a ship-to-shore broadcast from the bridge when the vessel was well out to sea. Captain Giles Stedman was giving the position of the ship.

"We are exactly 95 miles due east of Atlantic City," he said.

"Holy smoke," broke in someone, "what a sweet spot for a German submarine! Better be careful, captain."

Stedman smiled and no one thought any more about it until later when the big liner suddenly began to zigzag crazily. In the twinkling of an eye the rumor was skyrocketing among the passengers that a U-boat was stalking the vessel.

Near pandemonium broke out. Some guests, including at least one senator and several congressmen, rushed to their staterooms and donned life preservers. After several minutes of panicky confusion, the alarm was dispelled by word from the bridge that the ship was not trying to escape a sub.

"Only testing the engines," was the explanation. "There is no danger of any kind. Go back to your drinks."

HARRY HOPKINS

There was one piece of advice the Democratic National committee group gave the president when they conferred with him last Thursday. It was short and snappy, "Keep Hopkins out of the campaign!"

This was not the first time Roosevelt had been told this since the noise-some Chicago convention, where the idealistic but politically inept secretary of commerce held forth as White House generalissimo amid a continuous roar of resounding blunders. Others have voiced the same pointed counsel.

In fact, one of the most significant recent inner-administration developments is the unanimity of few that Hopkins is a trouble-making influence around the president.

What gives weight to this undercover feeling is that some of the sharpest critics are New Deal bigwigs who have been Hopkins' closest friends and were his staunchest defenders when he was under fire during his WPA days.

But like the regulars, they now hold that his residence in the White House and constant ready access to Roosevelt's ear is very harmful. Specifically, it is being charged that Hopkins is preventing the president from obtaining realistic information on important situations, is giving him unsound and timid advice, and is keeping hard-hitting fighters from his councils.

One of the most serious accusations against Hopkins is that he won, and is keeping, his behind-the-throne place by the policy of never standing up against Roosevelt on issues.

It is one of the president's weaknesses that he doesn't like tough-willed advisers. He will listen to suggestions and argument, but once he has made up his mind he is irritated by continued resistance. Unlike other inner-circleers who stubbornly hold to their contentions, Hopkins never goes beyond a certain point.

He will lay proposals before Roosevelt, but if the president draws back and manifests disapproval, Hopkins backs down and runs for cover.

Note—Hopkins is one of the most difficult men to see in Washington. It is far harder to get to him than to the president. Even officials of the commerce department have trouble getting to him directly.

the work of others." He will be replaced by the "modern German work type."

It is quite possible that the old-fashioned gentleman was not the best that humanity could produce. To many of us moderns he had come to seem limited and stuffy. But it is possible, too, that the Nazi "work type" isn't the last word in kindness, in creativeness or in intelligence. The Nazi type has flourished from time to time in human history, to be remembered with hatred and contempt. Of late it has developed some new tricks in bloodletting, lying and treachery, but Dr. Rosenberg may be mistaken in believing that this will give it a lasting lease of life.—New York Times.

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington — Capitol barber shop:

Barber: Hello, Senator. You look hot.

Democrat: New Deal Senator: Dammit!

all, man, I am hot. First, it's Hitler; then it's politics; now it's the weather. I doubt if any of us will live 'til the first frost. If you put a hot towel on my head, I'll have you jailed for sabotage.

Republican Anti-New Deal Representative (from adjoining chair): I guess if the Father of Our Country could take it, Senator, we ought to be able to. You've been making too many of those pro-third term speeches. Say, that one you made yesterday about there not really being any third term tradition—you don't believe that, do you?

Sen.: Certainly I do. Traditions are not made with words. You have to have some positive acts establishing it. The third term idea never has beaten any one in this country and it won't.

Rep.: Well, we'll see about that. When That Man Roosevelt . . .

Sen.: Now look here, young man, if you want to argue with me, assume at least the dignity befitting a representative of the people and leave out the name-calling.

Rep.: All right, when President Roosevelt becomes Mr. Roosevelt again, he'll realize that the people of this country have no use for a man who tries to ride rough shod over the ideals of democracy.

Sen.: Tush and piffle. If the people should vote in November to have a new tenant at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue (which they certainly won't, young man) it will be because they have been convinced that someone else can do the job better than it is being done. The third term bugaboo will have nothing whatever to do with it.

Rep.: Why, Senator, how can a man of your political astuteness brush off so glibly the principal issue of this campaign? Now, up in my district—

Sen.: I don't know. Anything about your district, young man, but I'll just illustrate what I mean, using your district as an example. You are a Republican; therefore your district is Republican . . . but didn't it vote for Roosevelt in 1932 and 1936? Certainly. And that's all there is to it. There's nothing the people of this country like better than booting out a so-called tradition.

Other things being equal, they would rather kick over the traces of tradition any day than run down the same old groove.

Rep.: Well, Senator, maybe I don't agree with you about the motivation, but I'll take your word for it that the people like a change and still bet my bucks that New Deal music has gone stale in the ears of American voters. The people want a new tune.

Sen.: It all depends on the tune. The national anthem has been kicking around quite a while but it still can bring a crowd to its feet.

Rep.: So could "God Bless America" until the Democrats took it over. Well, good-bye, Senator.

Sen.: Boy, if that towel is hot, I'll have you shot at dawn. . . . Say! I believe that last remark was a dirty one. . . . Skip the shampoo, let me out of here. I've got to go write another speech!

HOLDING JOBS FOR CONSCRIPTS

Editor, Post-Crescent — Suppose the boys came back from their years of compulsory training and found another man holding down the job that the state had compelled them to leave—what then? To add insult to injury suppose that man had passed the same tests as they had? I wonder if, after enduring a year's grind in the training camp, our hero wouldn't be just a little bit disillusioned to find he had been beaten out of a job by a man he was theoretically supposed to protect in case of war. I wonder too how hard our hero would fight for a country that countenanced a thing of this sort.

Now this isn't merely a remote possibility. It so happens that this is exactly the kind of predicament our legislators propose to place the lads in. Its true, that if enacted, the conscription law would place all employers on their honor, that is, every employer as a patriot, would be expected to rehire the boys at the end of their training periods. No doubt most of them would, but it is childish to assume that all of them will. You know and I know that there are in this country many employers who are definitely not patriots, who would welcome the opportunity to take a slap at Uncle Sam. This "honor system" is a great thing but when something as important as a young man's future is at stake, it seems sort of inadequate. Something should be done.

For one thing a clause could be inserted whereby all employers who failed to rehire an employee would be subject to a court summons and required by law to get the signatures of other voters to get his name printed on the primary ballot. The required number of signers varied, from about 7,000 in the case of Republican candidates for state offices and senator, to some hundreds for county office aspirants.

Putting them all together it is likely that more than a million names were signed to the nominating petitions now on file with the county clerks of the state and crowding the bulging files in the elections division of the secretary of state's office in the capitol.

Because that tremendous number of signatures represents a big expenditure of money and work, it is realistic to query the worth of the Wisconsin system of nominations for the party ballot in view of certain obvious shortcomings.

In the first place most office seekers will be willing to admit that a signature on a nominating petition has become an empty gesture. Theoretically a pledge of support for the man named, it is now obviously nothing of the kind. Signatures are obtained en masse, and there have even been reports now and then of obtaining them through agents who work on the basis of commissions.

Then there is the practical problem of certifying the authenticity of the nominating signatures. With huge bales of nominating sheets, each containing ten or more names, heaped into the secretary of state's office within a short period of the printing of the official primary ballots, it is manifestly impossible to examine the petitions adequately and thoroughly to guarantee their propriety without hugely augmented machinery and expense.

Moreover, a capitol bureaucrat has now ruled that the nominating petitions have not the character of public records, that they have a private character which prevents publication of the names filed. The Rev. George Brown, boss of the election records division in the office of the secretary of state, insists upon his point, objections of many to the contrary.

ALTERNATIVES

Under such an interpretation the probable value of the nominating petition system is undermined still more, for if the petitions are not available for public inspection their collection becomes a mere mechanical formality. This department will venture a wager that within a week one man can get enough signatures to put Jefferson Davis on the Wisconsin primary ballot on the Republican ticket.

The Wisconsin system is a part of the direct, open primary system of nominations, but it is not an essential part of that system. It probably was intended to insure the primary election law guarantee that any eligible citizen can run for office, but also as a safeguard against excessively long ballots which might result if there were no restrictive provisions applying to candidates.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

STUPID TO SUFFER

It is astonishing how many people who purport to be of fair intelligence suffer from the manifold effects of piles (hemorrhoids) yet either do not suspect the nature of the trouble or, if they do know, they have piles, drift along from one "attack" to another, from poor health to worse, without seeking proper treatment.

Internal piles, the presence of which can be determined ONLY by visual examination thru the speculum—and don't let any trick doctor pretend he can tell whether you have piles without such examination—often give rise to reflex disturbances that lead to egregious errors in diagnosis and a great deal of ineffective treatment. Among the conditions which may be wholly due to neglected internal hemorrhoids are these, from actual clinical records: "Lumbago," "Sciatica," "bladder trouble," "prostatic obstruction," "peptic ulcer," "colitis," and various pelvic complaints in men and women, as well as complaints of "indigestion."

A good many persons with painful internal piles develop advanced anemia from frequent occult or unnoticed bleeding and get into a depraved state of health before they even consult a capable physician. By capable physician I mean one who insists on a thorough examination before he undertakes to treat a patient, and of course such examination includes rectal examination by the aid of speculum which reveals the unsuspected lesion.

It is not clearly understood by the general public that an "attack of piles" means inflammation of the piles, and when the "attack" is over the piles remain as before—so that it is a matter of time and circumstance until the piles again become inflamed and pain and other symptoms return. Piles being essential varicose veins, dilated or enlarged veins, no local medication and no systemic medicine can cure them. The only cure is obliteration of the varicose vein (as by the modern injection treatment) or excision of the varicose vein or destruction of it (by the old time clamp and cautery operation).

The injection treatment of piles in the hands of a physician skilled in the method is painless, readily administered in the doctor's office, does not detain the patient from regular work or activities, gives highly satisfactory results in practically all cases. It is indeed the method of choice today in all of the foremost medical centers. If your quack doctor doesn't approve of it or if he damns it with faint praise you may be sure that it is because he is far behind the progress of his profession—and you may tell him so with my compliments.

The injection treatment is applicable only to internal piles. External piles are best cured by ligature under local anesthesia or, if thrombosed (if a blood clot has sentinal part of that system. It probably was intended to insure the primary election law guarantee that any eligible citizen can run for office, but also as a safeguard against excessively long ballots which might result if there were no restrictive provisions applying to candidates.

formed) by radical incision and removal of the clot.

About four-fifths of all cases of piles are internal piles, but when inflamed and swollen internal piles may protrude and require replacing after each evacuation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Iodine

Does iodine loose strength on standing? I was going to give all the fowl and stock a nip of iodine by placing it in their water, just as we take it, but our feed man says it is useless to do so. (R. M. D.)

Answer—A few drops of iodine in the drinking water once or twice a week is a good way to insure a suitable ration to stock and fowl. On long standing the iodine may evaporate, but not if the water is treated just before the stock is watered.

Hernia

Kindly inform me whether a truss worn for inguinal hernia would cause or tend to cause enlargement of the saphenous vein in the leg? (J. DeN. M.)

Answer—Not if the truss is fitted or adjusted by a physician. Trusses fitted and worn without medical advice and care often cause unpleasant or serious results. Why go thru life so handicapped? Send stamped envelope bearing your address, and ask for pamphlet on Hernia.

Cheliosis

What vitamin was it you said should be given for maceration and cracking or fissuring at the corners of the mouth? (B. S. O.)

Answer—Vitamin G (otherwise called B<sub>7</sub>, riboflavin.) It is one of the entities in vitamin B complex. Capsules (not capsules of vitamin B complex are available, each containing 400 international units of B<sub>7</sub>, 400 gamma of riboflavin, etc.—three of the capsules daily would provide optimal intake.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Aug. 6, 1930
Continental United States had a population of 122,729,615 on April 2 that year. The nation's total population, with its outlying possessions, numbered 137,502,202 persons. The total population increase in the 48 states and the District of Columbia in the 10 previous years was 17,018,999, the largest numerical growth of any decade in American history.

The milk supply in the Appleton territory had dropped between 20 and 30 per cent in the last few weeks as a result of the scorching heat and drought which had covered the greater portion of the country. There were no indications of price changes, however.

The British destroyer Lynx was mined and sunk Monday, the admiralty announced at London. The Lynx was built in 1913 and had a gross displacement of 935 tons, being 260 feet long and having a speed of 32 knots. An attack by German airships which flew over the English coast was announced by the London official press bureau.

Council Orders Equipment for Garbage Pickup

Action on Purchase of Truck and Collection Box Follows Debate

Kaukauna—Residents of Kaukauna now are assured of a municipal garbage collection program as the city council last night purchased a truck chassis and garbage collection box.

Other matters discussed by the council were the purchase of some property from Charles Vanevenhoven, the location of the county garage, and the increase in the salaries of the police and firemen.

The Elgin corporation of Elgin, Ill., was awarded the garbage collection box contract on a low bid of $1,154.25. The body must have six yards capacity, fully enclosed, and with any necessary power hoists and take-offs. It will be painted white with "City of Kaukauna" lettered on the side. The only other bid on a garbage box was that of the Mullins Body and Tank company of Green Bay which entered bids of $1,200 on a six yards capacity box and $1,295 on a box with eight yards capacity.

The Gustman Chevrolet Sales, Inc., Kaukauna, was awarded the contract for the 1 1/2 ton truck for $716.05. The auto company had entered a base bid of $577 on a Chevrolet truck, but the addition of dual wheels and several accessories and attachments brought the bid to $716.05.

The De Brue and Ives Motor Sales company, Kaukauna, submitted a bid of $1,889 for a Ford truck and garbage body complete.

The suggestion was offered by the board of public works that the council buy the garbage box and install it on one of the city's present trucks, since the truck is now used two-thirds of the time for rubbish collections.

Suggests Waiting
Alderman Jule A. Mertes asked that the council wait until it draws up next year's budget before buying the truck, declaring that "we've been fooling around with this since last December and now most of the summer is over."

Alderman George E. Proper answered him by saying that garbage collection is an all-year job and that it didn't make any difference which month they started garbage collections.

The council then voted to purchase the garbage box from the Elgin corporation, with Mertes casting the only dissenting vote.

The council then took up the suggestion of placing the box on one of the city's present trucks, but Alderman Oscar W. Alger objected.

"If you put a new body on an old truck, you will have a second-hand job. Put the new equipment on a new truck and use the old trucks for several more years. In the long run, you will be money ahead," he declared. "The old trucks are likely to break down and the garbage system will be curtailed. We must show the taxpayers that we can give service."

The council then approved the truck contract with Mertes again casting the only negative vote.

Land Purchase Asked
The board of public works also last night asked the city council to purchase a piece of land from Charles Vanevenhoven, on which, they said, a pumping station is located and across a corner of which a sewer pipe runs. The purchase price for the land was $200. The board told the council that a $1,000 law suit would be started by Mr. Vanevenhoven for illegal seizure of property if the city would not purchase this land.

Alderman Edward R. Steidl objected to this procedure saying that if the city bought this property to evade the law suit, it would create a bad precedent and others would come forward and force purchase of property for sewer purposes.

Mayor Gantner then told the council that City Engineer Frank M. Charlesworth, Jr., had surveyed the Vanevenhoven property and had found that the pumping station was between one to two feet off the Vanevenhoven property line.

"As for the piece of sewerpipe on the property," the mayor continued, "the city engineer believes it a relief to prevent the washing away of the land."

Three Vote No
The motion to purchase the property from Charles Vanevenhoven for $200 was carried, 7 to 3, with Aldermen Steidl, Mertes, and Nagel voting in the negative.

The council granted bartender's licenses to Harry Welhouse, 173 W. Wisconsin avenue; Martin De Bruin, 181 W. Wisconsin avenue; Edward Henningsen, 209 W. Third street; Arthur W. Lueck, 315 1/2 Main street; and Sylvia Warner, 161 W. Wisconsin avenue.

Following this the council authorized the mayor to write R. L. Williams, chief executive officer of the Chicago and North Western Railway, asking for an appointment to confer with him regarding the railroad shops here.

Alderman Mertes told the council that he had learned on good authority that the railroad planned to remove what is left of the shops here and suggested that the city enlist the aid of Kaukauna industries which do most of the shipping to help keep the shops in the city.

The council then turned to the question of the county's proposal to locate a county garage in Kaukauna if the city could furnish the land. It was decided to refer it to the board of supervisors as to where they wanted the garage and how much they would pay for the land.

Several aldermen objected to the city furnishing the land, because, they said, the city would be unable to collect any taxes from the county and there would be no new men hired for the county garage. These aldermen also suggested that if the county would plow several of the city streets while on the way to plow the state highways and county trunks, they would favor donating the land.

Mayor Gantner said that he had looked over several sites with the representatives of the county highway committee and said that the county offered to pay $100 toward the purchase price, but that they wanted it located along new Highway 41.

"What are we going to do," the mayor asked, "spend the taxpayers money and get no returns or tell them we have no sites?"

The council answered him by referring the matter back to the Outagamie county board.

Restore Pay Cut of Police And Firemen

Return to 1932 Rate Ordered at Meeting Of Kaukauna Council

Kaukauna — Kaukauna policemen and firemen were given a raise in pay by the city council at its meeting last night. The wage increase will restore the final half of a wage cut given the police and firemen in 1932. The cut then was 10 per cent but 5 per cent was returned some years later.

The salary increase will be effective as of Aug. 1 this year. Alderman Jule Mertes declared that the question should be dealt with when the budget was set up in December.

According to the resolution as passed by the council last night, the chief of police will receive a salary of $2,000 and the assistant chief a yearly wage of $1,680. The starting pay for policemen will be $1,320 for the first year; $1,440 for the second year and $1,680 for the third and each following year.

Under the terms of the act passed, the fire chief will receive $1,760 and the assistant fire chief $1,650. The salary of the captain of the fire department will be $1,560.

Beginning firemen will receive $1,320 for the first year, $1,380 for the second; and $1,500 from the third year on.

Lists Costs
Alderman Edward R. Steidl reviewed to the council the increase in operation costs of the police and fire departments, warning them about increasing the city payroll too much. In 1931 the cost of the police department payroll totaled $7,636.50 whereas in 1939 expenses amounted to $11,357.77. The fire department expenses increased from $12,756.04 in 1931 to $13,753.77 last year, he said.

Alderman Mertes warned against giving the chief too high a salary as his predecessors never had received that much, including expenses of their cars.

On the vote for the increase, Steidl and Mertes showed the only opposition.

Clarence Zachow of the local club continued his talk of a few weeks ago on the transportation of United States troops during the World war. He also talked on activities in France where he served with the A. E. F.

The Clintonville Rotary club has voted to pay for one of the six boy scout cabins erected this spring at the Gardner Dam camp of the Valley Council. Each cabin houses 8 boys comfortably. Each of them costs $250.

President Francis Higgins, W. A. Otten and F. D. Hurley of the Clintonville club attended a district conference of Rotary clubs last week at Rhinelander.

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Murphy returned Sunday from a three weeks' motor trip through the west. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Curtis and son of Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Merrill are spending this week at Antigo, being called there by the death of the late self of the type of float they will have entered in the parade.

Kaukauna Legion Baseball Team Ends Successful Season
Kaukauna — A successful season was closed recently by the Kaukauna American Legion baseball team, which, although it did not win its way to the state tournament held in Wisconsin Rapids over the weekend, did capture several division championships.

The Kaukauna team won the district championship when it defeated Appleton's American Legion team in three out of four games, and snared the triangular district championship when it turned back the teams from Wabeno, Lena, Gillett, and Oconto Falls.

The Kaws lost their chance to go to the state tournament when they were beaten by Wisconsin Rapids and Oshkosh, both teams being played in only three days.

Non-conference victories were scored by the local legionnaires over the Kaukauna All-Stars and the Kimberly All-Stars.

Tavern Permit Applicant Threatens to Sue Officials

Kaukauna — The city council, Mayor William J. Gantner, and several other city officials will be charged with malfeasance in office if Mr. and Mrs. Anton Servaes, 100 Island street, carry out the warning they addressed to the council at the council meeting last night.

In a letter addressed to the mayor and to the city council and which was signed with the names of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Servaes was the following warning:

"This is to inform you that legal action already has been taken regarding a Class B liquor license and unless this license is granted tonight, further steps will be taken and a possibility of your being indicted for malfeasance in office."

Stand Pat
The council did not discuss the subject of a license for Mr. and Mrs. Servaes at all last night, having refused to grant her a license at the July 16 meeting, on the grounds that the license would exceed the quota allowed by state law and therefore be invalid.

City Attorney Harry McAndrews warned the council at the July 10 meeting that if it granted a license and knew that it exceeded the quota set for the city by state law, then it could be ousted from office by any taxpayer who could sue on a charge of malfeasance in office.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

A throat ring and draft tube liner were installed in the draft tube Monday. They have a combined weight of almost 5 tons.

Axis Powers Turning Guns Toward Africa

said. All the Italian raiders were reported to have returned safely.

(A dispatch from Jerusalem said damage and casualties suffered in the raid on Haifa were believed to be slight.)

In Egypt, Italian fliers bombed a British encampment south of Sollum, near the Libyan frontier, and a railroad line running from Mersa Matruh to Alexandria, it was announced.

A four-motored British Sunderland plane was shot down by Italian fighter planes near Tonruk, on the Libyan side of the frontier, the Italians taking the crew of eight prisoners, the communique said.

Further east the Italians reported "an effective bombardment" of British naval bases at Aden and Berbera, on the Gulf of Aden. One British plane was reported shot down.

The Italians also confirmed reports that an invasion of British Somaliland had begun at several points, and the newspaper Il Messaggero said Italian planes had bombed important British fortifications.

Heat With Britons

Cairo, Egypt.—The African war, suddenly flaring into a more decisive phase of the axis-British conflict, may be decided as much by water as by bullets and bombs.

Britain's most powerful natural defenses against the troops assembled by Mussolini in the Libyan desert are thirst and heat.

There is a waterless stretch of blazing desert of almost 400 miles between Italian positions and the British base at Mersa Matruh, on the Mediterranean coast.

Temperatures of 115 and 120 degrees are usual in the daytime.

Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, Mussolini's commander in Libya, will have to transport all his water over dusty trails almost devoid of cover and subject to the attacks of the Royal Air Force and motorized British land units. The British forces are composed of hardy fighting men some of the empire's most famous regiments, who have been trained for years in the desert warfare.

The British would have a line of oases to fall back upon.

The naval blockade of the Libyan coast is asserted by the British already to have prevented much needed supply ships from getting through from Italy, while the Royal Air Force has been subjecting Graziani's bases at Tobruk, Bardia and Derna to almost daily attacks.

Bomb Gibraltar

Rome.—Another bombing of Gibraltar last night was reported today in a dispatch from Algiers, Spain, to Il Giornale D'Italia. The dispatch said that two planes flew over the British fortress dropping high-explosive bombs and escaped in spite of strong anti-aircraft fire.

This is the second raid on Gibraltar reported by the Italian press but not mentioned in the high command communiques.

London.—An air ministry bulletin said that a British medium bomber had bombed Le Bourget airport at Paris Tuesday afternoon and that bombs had landed near German aircraft and hangars.

The bulletin said the raider was able to drop his load and retreat into the clouds before any anti-aircraft batteries could be brought into action.

The ministry's daily communique reported that royal air planes had bombed an oil plant at Homburg, and started many fires on airfields in Holland and northern Germany.

Lawrence Calls Hiram Johnson Great Liberal

Says President May Regret Statement Made About Western Senator

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—President Roosevelt often makes impromptu remarks in his press conferences, which on further reflection he doubtless would not make, and one of these is the unfortunate comment to the effect that Senator Hiram Johnson of California is no longer a "liberal."

It so happens that Mr. Johnson is up for reelection and is a candidate on both the Republican and Democratic primaries on August 27 next. It so happens also that all the five candidates are entered in both party primaries—a circumstance made possible by California's peculiar primary laws. It so happens also that Senator Johnson in 1934 in this way won both the Republican and the Democratic nominations and it would not be at all surprising if he repeated that performance this month.

The reason is simple—Hiram Johnson is the greatest liberal in American public life today. No man can match his record. His career as governor of California as a foe of the political machines and bosses has been followed by 23 years in the United States senate during which he has supported liberal legislation irrespective of which party sponsored it.

Backed Liberal Laws

Specifically under the New Deal regime, the California senator voted for the Social Security law, the Securities and Exchange laws, and the Wagner Labor Relations law as well as for a lot of minor measures of a progressive nature sponsored by the administration. The greatest act of liberalism, however, to the senator's credit was his refusal to vote for a bill that would have permitted the president to "pack" the supreme court of the United States in the year 1937. It turned out that Mr. Roosevelt was able in subsequent years by means of vacancies to put five members of his own official family on the supreme bench, but as for the court bill itself Hiram Johnson's record is as clear-cut as any progressive could wish.

The president may have been thinking about Mr. Johnson's vigorous opposition to the court bill because of which other senators were designated for "purge" in the 1938 primaries by the New Dealers or he may have been thinking about the Californian's well-known isolationist attitude.

This correspondent has never agreed with Senator Johnson's views on foreign policy and has written again and again that the Johnson act, forbidding credits to foreign countries defaulting on war debts was a mistaken piece of legislation, but differences of opinion on foreign questions are by no means determinative of whether a man is a conservative or a liberal or whether he is a friend of the common people or of the seekers after special privilege.

Fights Honorably

Senator Johnson has maintained his convictions and his principles against any and all overtures from pressure groups. The senator takes his stand and fights honorably for his views. He is highly regarded by his colleagues in the senate because of his fearlessness and his independence of spirit. It would be a drab world if everybody in Washington agreed on everything and it would hardly be a liberal government if the legislators were picked for public office through the influence of the chief executive, the retention of whose favor alone would then be a factor in the opportunity of a public man to win reelection.

Senator Johnson is as much a fixture in the United States senate as anybody who has been there in the last 50 years. He can be counted on to fight against tyranny or despotism whether it arises from the political bosses or the government bosses. He is alert at 73—just as much if not more than the present the house of commons on Britain's wartime economic problems, said:

"The need to supplement our own production by drawing upon the vast and invulnerable capacity of North America has immensely increased since the fall of France."

"While but a few months ago we were placing orders with American industry to supplement the deficiencies in combined allied production," Greenwood declared, "we now need to embark on a much more extensive program which must be related to the American defense preparations."

Greenwood said there had been organized a committee composed of himself as chairman, Neville Chamberlain and Sir Kingsley Wood to direct the nation's economic war policy.

Increase Staff

The staff assisting the British purchasing commission in the United States will be augmented "by experts with practical experience such as the United States have not had in the production and operation of different types of armament," he said.

"Our object is a Britain completely mobilized, economically."

"Our object is to keep down the prices of necessities and we are spending considerable sums to do it. The policy of anchoring the prices of essential commodities will be continued to insure the unimpaired health of the nation."

Turning to shipping, which he said was "not too bad," he warned that "our ports and shipping will be the enemy's main objectives of the enemy's attacks."

"Starvation of the people of this country is impossible," Greenwood declared.

He concluded with a resume of efforts to increase food stocks and to reduce the intake of commodities which are "not indispensable."

who is 72.

The test of a statesman is not whether he originates a lot of laws or puts into effect the bills of special groups, however benevolent their purposes. It is whether a legislator stands on guard against the influences, beneficent or otherwise, which sap the economic vitality of the nation and the integrity of government itself.

Senator Johnson is one of those watchdogs of human liberty, who can be counted on to put aside the plaudits of the moment for what he believes in the long run is for the best interests of his country. My own prediction is that the people of California will repudiate the idea that Senator Johnson isn't liberal by renominating and reelecting him for another six years. There'll be neither fascism nor communism in the American government so long as Hiram Johnson can raise his powerful voice in the United States senate.

Employment Soars Under Defense Program

Boston.—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins declared today that the nation's total non-agricultural employment was approximately 9,000,000 greater now than in March, 1933, and would "continue to rise in the coming months as the war material industries expand rapidly under the comprehensive national defense program."

She told the 53th annual convention of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor that the New Deal's program had resulted in increased income for farmers, greater earnings for business, and safer and more profitable holdings for investors, and that American wage earners had made greater gains than in any comparable period of the country's history.

Neenah Up $500,000 In Assessed Valuation

Neenah — An increase of over $500,000 in the assessed valuation of the city of Neenah for 1940 was reported today by Harry Zemlock, city clerk. Following the board of review hearings, the total of real estate and personal property for 1940 has been set at $18,465,563, an increase of $503,274 over the 1939 total which was $17,962,289.

Oshkosh May Get Seaplane Base

Lake Airport Could be Started After County Buys Present Site

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau
Oshkosh—The possibility that an air-base for seaplanes may be established at Oshkosh on Lake Winnebago was expressed by Mayor Oaks Tuesday morning when he appeared before the Winnebago county aviation committee at the courthouse.

The mayor told the committee that he is in a position to begin work on a project which would establish a seaplane base at Miller's bay as soon as the Oshkosh airport is purchased by the Winnebago county board. He added that building materials and labor to construct the necessary structures are available to the county free of cost, the only requirement being that the Oshkosh airport be municipally owned and operated.

Mayor Oaks contended that despite its size, Lake Winnebago is comparatively calm at all times, and pointed out that Miller's bay, which is located between Menomonee park and Doan's point, is sheltered considerably from rough water.

William B. Todd, Jr., St. Paul, district airport engineer for the civil aeronautics commission, who came to Oshkosh at the request of the aviation committee, expressed keen interest in the mayor's proposal and agreed to make a tour of the possible sites for the seaplane base.

Todd then told the county committee that for a Class C airport rating, for which Oshkosh is best suited to qualify, the proposed airport must have minimum runways of 3,500 feet in length and 150 feet in width. He stated that an airport three-quarters of a mile square would fit the Class C requirements as set up by the Wisconsin State Planning board.

Henry Schultz, Neenah, chairman of the committee, indicated that under the present setup of the proposed airport purchase, which would include purchase of the present Oshkosh airport site and adjoining farmland, only one-half mile sides could be laid out. Committee then decided that perhaps it would be feasible either to purchase or lease additional land west of the site in order that extension of the required runways be accomplished.

Indication that the federal government is interested in a municipal airport at Oshkosh was given by Todd, who said that the Civil Aeronautics commission has been desirous of seeing an adequate airport established here for several years.

The committee also heard M. W. Forkelson, chairman of the Wisconsin State Planning board, who warned committee members of the danger in allowing high buildings to be constructed adjacent to airport property.

The aviation committee will submit a report to the county board of supervisors Aug. 13.

Births far Ahead of Deaths During July

Neenah — There were more than three times as many births than deaths in Neenah during July, according to the monthly vital statistics report of Dr. Frank O. Brunckhorst, city physician, to the state board of health. During July there were 41 births, 13 deaths, and 6 marriages recorded in Neenah.

Births showed an increase over the June summary while there were decreases in both deaths and marriages. The June report showed 28 births, 16 deaths and 15 marriages.

Menasha Clears Way to Reduce Road Penalties

Attorney to Prepare Ordinance Setting $1.75 as Minor Fine

Menasha — The Menasha council took steps to reduce costs for minor traffic offenders Tuesday night when City Attorney Edward C. McKenzie was authorized to prepare an ordinance setting costs of a guilty plea at $1.75.

Under the present set-up a fine of $1 and costs amounts to $4.90. Under the proposed ordinance, which was introduced by Alderman Walter O'Brien, chairman of the police committee, an offender would not have to appear before the justice. Similar ordinances have been adopted in Neenah and Appleton.

Alderman O'Brien also protested against having married women working for the city, stating that one is employed at the disposal plant and another at the relief office. City Attorney McKenzie explained that an ordinance cannot discriminate against married women but the council could ask heads of departments to cooperate with the wishes of the aldermen.

Approve Projects
Installation of curb and gutter on Lincoln street and Harding street by the WPA was approved on recommendation of the board of public works. A request for extension of water main service on Lincoln street was approved.

Requests for curb and gutter on Broad street from Lush street to Lock street and on Prospect street were referred to a works board hearing scheduled for 7 o'clock Aug. 20. Protests also were received because of the city oil storage plant on Fourth street because of the noise, stench, and appearance. The plant is located in the heavy industrial zone of the city but protesting property owners will be invited to appear at the Aug. 20 meeting. Officials of the Olson trucking company also will be asked to appear to seek a remedy for alleged noise at the truck depot on Fourth street. Mayor Jensen declared that the Wheeler firm has done all it can to cooperate.

Ten feet of property was deeded to property owners on the north side of Grandview avenue in Bulard plat, making the street 50 feet wide. The Bauernfeind estate was credited with $199 against the curb and gutter assessment in the transfer for the opening of Manitowoc street.

Road Complaint
Edward Zeininger, second ward alderman, protested because of the wash-board condition of Tayco street. The council agreed to turn the surface back this fall and fill in with heavy gravel for oiling next spring.

The claim of Rufin Suss for transfer of mortgage in purchase of property for the new high school site was held in abeyance. Mayor Jensen told the council that he had received protests because of the condition of the slough off Brighton drive. He said bales of waxed paper have been dumped into the slough. The protest was referred to the board of health while the street department and park department will cooperate in filling in the slough as rapidly as possible.

To Establish Grades
The council considered establishing grades for homes in the city and ordered the city attorney to investigate. The subject was introduced by Alderman John Pinkerton because of protests received about the new Miller home on Winnebago avenue. The home is being built up higher than adjoining homes.

The city engineer, attorney, street commissioner and building inspector were ordered to confer with the architect and contractor.

On motion of Alderman Paul Laemmrich, the building inspector and fire chief were authorized to condemn the old building at the intersection of Milwaukee and Broad streets as a fire hazard.

The city attorney was instructed to order the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company to place all of its high tension wires underground. Alderman Patrick Keapok called attention to the recent accident when a power line broke and short circuited the Menasha utility wires, burning out six stoves and doing other damage.

Cooperate in Events
The council voted to cooperate in the Kaukauna centennial festival and the Winnebago land day observance at the state fair. Aldermen John Pinkerton, Edward Zeininger, and Ray Keefe were named to prepare a float for the Kaukauna parade Sunday, Aug. 18. The Menasha High school band also will participate in the parade.

E. G. Sonnenberg, Third ward supervisor, was named to the Winnebago land day observance committee. The council agreed that the Menasha High school band should go to Milwaukee for the event. Expenses are to be shared by cities in the Winnebago land day region.

The bid of Bob Ulrich of $25 for the house on Broad street owned by the city was accepted. Ulrich will raze the building and fill basement to ground level and provide an opening for the Main street alley. Improvement of the alley is part of the WPA project recently approved at Washington.

The WPA project also will include improvement of the high school athletic field. The council will meet with the board of education to discuss the work which will include installation of water lines and seeding of the ground. Mayor Jensen pointed out that only 47 men are employed on WPA now while last year there were 85. Twenty-five more men were promised July 1 but no additional men have been assigned yet.

Refund $73 Fee
The fee of $73 for the building permit for the new St. Patrick's school was refunded to the parish. Fire Chief Paul Theimer was authorized to attend the state fire chiefs' school at Madison Aug. 21 to 23. Police Chief Alex Slomski was authorized to attend a police chiefs' conference at Milwaukee Sept. 9 to 12 at which means of combating subversive activities will be discussed.

K. Ellingboe, building inspector, reported that he issued 29 building, 12 plumbing, and 14 sewer permits during July. He made 38 building, 28 plumbing and 31 sewer inspections.

Catlin Urges Garden Club To Press Roadside Projects
Menasha — Mark Catlin, Sr., member of the Wisconsin Conservation commission, guest speaker at the Menasha Garden club picnic meeting Tuesday afternoon and evening at Alicia park, Appleton, urged continuation of the garden clubs' roadside beautification program and discussed the economic value of conservation in Wisconsin.

The effects of conservation touch the lives of each citizen more than any other state department, Mr. Catlin pointed out as he illustrated economic value of the state's natural resources. He stated that 18,000,000 pounds of fish, of which 8,000,000 were carp, were caught in Wisconsin rivers and lakes last year. Hunters killed 1,250,000 ducks, 32,000 deer, 1,250,000 squirrels, 1,500,000 cottontails, 300,000 jack rabbits and 524,000 snow shoe rabbits besides prairie chickens, partridges and bears during the year. Fur skins brought in about one and a half million dollars and last year, in Oshkosh alone, $500,000 worth of frogs were caught and sold while several thousand lizards were sold to schools and colleges for dissecting purposes.

State Is Active
Mr. Catlin told garden club members that last year the highway and conservation departments met jointly and voted to acquire 100 foot strips, at minimum prices, along roads in northern Wisconsin for dissecting purposes.

The structures are to be located on the Soo line right-of-way near the round house in the yards. The Ogle Construction company, Chicago, will build the coal station. The station will be 15.4 feet by 31.4 feet of timber construction on concrete piers.

The water tank will be of wood, steel and concrete construction with a 15,000 gallon capacity. The Soo line will be the contractor.

The building inspector also issued a permit to Alfred Dieckhoff, 853 Higgins avenue, for a frame garage at an estimated cost of $400. It will be 19 feet by 20 feet.

Catlin Urges Garden Club To Press Roadside Projects
Menasha — Mark Catlin, Sr., member of the Wisconsin Conservation commission, guest speaker at the Menasha Garden club picnic meeting Tuesday afternoon and evening at Alicia park, Appleton, urged continuation of the garden clubs' roadside beautification program and discussed the economic value of conservation in Wisconsin.

The effects of conservation touch the lives of each citizen more than any other state department, Mr. Catlin pointed out as he illustrated economic value of the state's natural resources. He stated that 18,000,000 pounds of fish, of which 8,000,000 were carp, were caught in Wisconsin rivers and lakes last year. Hunters killed 1,250,000 ducks, 32,000 deer, 1,250,000 squirrels, 1,500,000 cottontails, 300,000 jack rabbits and 524,000 snow shoe rabbits besides prairie chickens, partridges and bears during the year. Fur skins brought in about one and a half million dollars and last year, in Oshkosh alone, $500,000 worth of frogs were caught and sold while several thousand lizards were sold to schools and colleges for dissecting purposes.

State Is Active
Mr. Catlin told garden club members that last year the highway and conservation departments met jointly and voted to acquire 100 foot strips, at minimum prices, along roads in northern Wisconsin for dissecting purposes.

Wants Schools Made Available For Meetings

Keller Urges Steps To Open Buildings for Political Gatherings

A joint meeting of representatives of the Democratic, Progressive and Republican parties to take steps to open the schools to political meetings is proposed by Gustave J. Keller, Outagamie county Democratic chairman, in letters today to Dr. C. L. Kolb, county Republican chairman, and T. E. McGowan, chairman of the county Progressive club.

Keller, in his letters, copies of which have been sent to Mayor Goodland and Seymour Gmeiner, chairman of the school board, says he understands that the "school board has arbitrarily adopted a resolution that the school buildings cannot be used for such purposes."

"We, as county leaders of the major political parties, are not only interested in having an opportunity of presenting our sides of the case, but I believe we have a duty to assist in giving the information to the public. The school board is defeating us in performing that duty," the letters read.

Keller proposes that a joint meeting of three representatives of each county party committee be held to place the matter before the school board, mayor and city council.

"The schools are built and maintained by the public," Keller states. "Political organizations exist for the purpose of putting into being the wishes and desires of the public. Matters of government and candidates for office are of vital public concern. The public should be fully informed as to issues and candidates if it is to act intelligently. The attitude of the school board is, in my opinion, defeating the public interest and violating the right of the public."

"It is with frequency that we hear the remark that the public is indifferent, lazy toward its governmental units, in safeguarding its rights. Part of this, I feel, is due to the difficulty in political organizations being able to properly present their views."

Reports Come Before City Council Tonight

Reports from various committees and possible discussion of the new municipal swimming pool to be built at Erb park are on the docket of the city council at its regular meeting at 7:30 tonight in the city hall.

A board of public works report, recommendations of the street and bridge and license committees and other routine matters will come before the aldermen.

Cooperatives Hold District Meeting

Representatives of cooperative associations within 75 miles of Appleton which are members of Midland Cooperative Wholesale are meeting with Minneapolis representatives of the organization at the Hotel Conway today to discuss winter merchandising programs. John Vandermyle and Gordon Nevins, Minneapolis, are conducting the sessions. Local arrangements were made by Andrew Marske, field representative.

Democratic Withdrawals Interpreted as Weakness

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — Withdrawal of three candidates from the Democratic state primary ticket was interpreted here today as a significant betrayal of weakness in the Democratic state campaign, especially since the withdrawals included the name of William B. Rubin, an inveterate candidate.

Rubin many months ago had signified his eagerness to become a candidate for governor this year, and at the recent national convention of the party at Chicago he announced his intentions when he reported the receipt of a mysterious telephone call, "from Washington" which he said, asked him to make the race.

Because of Rubin's well known ambition to become governor—an ambition which led him to make two previous unsuccessful attempts—his decision to withdraw this year is taken by many Democrats and neutral observers as a confession of the Democrats' weakness in the 1940 state campaign.

Supports Theory

That interpretation was reinforced by the simultaneous withdrawal of two of the three Democratic candidates for lieutenant governor, Senator Anthony Gawronski and Marshall Whaling, both of Milwaukee.

Their action leaves the Democratic primary ticket offering only the name of Morley G. Kelly of Fond du Lac, a former state senator with an unspectacular record who was beaten for reelection in his home district a few years ago.

Rubin's action apparently leaves former Governor Francis E. McGovern of Milwaukee the leading remaining Democratic candidate in the primary, and makes him the favorite for the nomination. His opponents are Raymond J. Cannon, a former congressman, Gerhard A. Hagedorn, who is totally unknown in state Democratic politics, and William R. Callahan, a conservative Democrat who managed Vice President Garner's campaign for delegates in Wisconsin last spring.

The possibility of McGovern's

Citizen Feels Tourist Folder On-City Should be Modernized

A citizen of Appleton wishes that "some of our stores" would do something about bringing up-to-date the folders on this city which they peddle to interested tourists.

The other morning, Major John Goodland, Jr., received such a folder through the mail. It's one of these traditional souvenir folders that unwinds to display a string of pictures. The anonymous correspondent did not report where the folder was purchased, but remarked that it came from "one who thinks folders like this, sold in some of our stores, are a disgrace to our city. Why can't we have up-to-date ones, for our visitors and tourists?"

The folder that Mayor Goodland received is definitely not modern. The cars that you see parked on College avenue are the 20-year vintage. The post office, according to the folder, stands across from the Conway hotel. The correspondent has written underneath the picture, "A ha ha ha."

Slip down a couple more pictures and you'll gaze at a scene of the city hall and public library. The correspondent points out the black stockings worn by children in the photo.

Did You Ever Know? Here are some of the facts about "active, attractive Appleton," which tourists will be interested in knowing.

There's a band stand in city park.

The high school is on Harris street.

Men wear derby hats when they go on picnics at Waverly beach.

The population of the city is 20,000 (latest census figures say over 28,000) and Appleton "recently erected" a $100,000 Y. M. C. A. building (the "Y" has already celebrated the 25th anniversary of the completion of the building.)

The "main thoroughfares in and out of Appleton for a radius of 50 miles are of concrete." (It was the impression of many people that they could go as far as Chicago, even, and not have to get off concrete.)

The mayor said he agreed with the correspondent that the folder was behind the times, way behind the times, in fact.

The board donated $200 to the Athletic association. George Vanderveen was reappointed to the police and fire commission for five years.

The clerk was authorized to write for quotations on stoker coal. Bills and claims amounting to $6,707.68 were read and approved.

Quartet Tournament to Be Held in September

Throw your arms around your neighbors' shoulders, bend your head slightly forward, and give out with songs like "Sweet Sixteen" and "Moonlight Bay," for the Barbershop Quartet tournament or rally or whatever you choose to call it is going to be held at Pierce park the night of either Sept. 4 or 5.

The tournament is open to male quartets of Appleton and vicinity—vicinity meaning Neenah-Menasha, Kaukauna, New London, Clintonville, Seymour, Little Chute, Kimberly, et al.

There is no entry fee for the tournament. There are few regulations. The aims are simple: To help revive the singing of barbershop harmony, to give quartets a chance to be heard by the general public, and to give the general public an evening of fun.

The public will be invited to the tournament without charge.

There will be no required songs; each quartet will be given an opportunity to sing two or three numbers at its own choosing. Remember, that it's the real old-fashioned barbershop harmony that the public will be listening for and it doesn't have to be frilly.

Quartets are encouraged to come attired in handle-bar mustaches, derby hats and other apparel reminiscent of the days when the Barbershop Quartet stood supreme as a welder of fellowship through song.

Quartets will sing from the Pierce park pavilion stage, through an amplifying system that will be made as efficient as possible. A master of ceremonies will introduce the quartets, with brief interviews at the mike, and it has been suggested that the crowd join in a bit of community singing to make the atmosphere more harmonious.

Instead of awarding prizes, the Post-Crescent is going to throw a stag party for the fellows who participate; a party at a place where there can be plenty of singing and good time and where the quartets can mix a bit and try out new combinations.

Johns Plans Scound Try at Non-Stop Flight Across U. S.

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Washington—Neuman Johns, 26-year-old son of Congressman Joshua L. Johns, Algoma Republican, is planning another non-stop flight from California to New York in a midget plane, the smallest ever flown such a distance, it is learned here. He failed in a previous attempt.

"Pat" Johns, as he is called, expects to start his flight Sept. 10 in "The Shamrock Kid," his plane, perhaps with a thought of borrowing some of the "luck of the Irish."

He estimates that the trip will take about 36 hours as the top speed of the plane is not much more than 100 miles an hour. It is a two-seater, but only one person can fly in it at present.

The younger Johns, who has been flying little over a year, has taken but one non-stop flight of any distance. He flew from Chicago to New Hampshire a year ago, even though he had only a student license, which authorized him to make flights of not over 25 miles. Subsequently, he flew from New Hampshire to California but made intermittent stops.

While in New Hampshire, Johns announced plans for a "peace" flight across the Atlantic ocean but was deterred by government officials.

He was forced to turn back on his first try at a transcontinental flight when his gasoline-laden ship couldn't clear the mountains.

Tigers Regain Lead as Indians Bow to Chi Sox

Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds Are Rained Out

By the Associated Press

Lefty Thornton Lee's two-hit pitching ousted the Cleveland Indians from first place in the American league race yesterday as the Chicago White Sox split a double-header with the Tribe. Detroit regained the league lead with a 6 to 2 victory over the St. Louis Browns in a night game.

Lee's superb tossing brought the White Sox a 5-1 decision in the first game, but Cleveland came back to take the second game 3 to 2. The Indians were forced to call on Bob Feller to squelch a ninth inning Sox rally that netted both their tallies.

It was Lee's second consecutive two-hit game and his fourth straight victory.

The Chicago Cubs and the Cincinnati Reds were rained out. Big Buck Newsom, Detroit's hurling ace, doesn't have a full head of steam yet but, with a little boost from Archie McKain, he conquered the Browns for his fourteenth victory of the year.

Newsom pitched seven-hit ball, but walked eight men and in the ninth inning he filled the bases with two out. McKain stepped in and fanned Walt Judnich to end the game. The Tigers assaulted three St. Louis hurlers with 11 hits, including a home run and a double by Rudy York, and sewed up the triumph with a four-run flurry in the sixth, when Billy Sullivan singled with the bases loaded.

With Newsom again in winning stride after his thumb injury the Tigers appear to have the best pitching in the league and the records show without question that they have the best batting.

On that basis the pennant prospects of the Tigers looked as rosy as today as any club holding only a scant half-game lead could expect.

It was another day of good pitching all around and no losing team collected more than three runs. The best twirling was a one-hit performance by Sid Hudson, Washington's big pickup from the Class D Florida State league, who had pitched another one-hitter earlier in the season.

Hudson shut out the Philadelphia Athletics 11-0, missing a no-hitter when Sam Chapman singled in the seventh. He had the help of a 13-hit offensive to which he personally contributed a two-run triple. Jim Bloodworth and Gee Walker hit homers.

Yanks Fall Apart
The New York Yankees fell apart at the seams again as they dropped their fourth straight game, 8-3 to the Boston Red Sox. Boston made 14 hits and was aided by two Yankee errors during a three-run rally that broke a tie in the seventh.

None of the first division clubs in the National league got into action yesterday, and the Pittsburgh Pirates took advantage of the lull to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 3-1 and move into a tie for fifth place. Ken Heintzelman gave nine hits to the Redbirds, but he struck out six and squelched a ninth inning threat by fanning two batters. A second scheduled game was halted by darkness.

The Boston Bees, who couldn't win themselves a few days ago, plastered a double licking on the Phillies 3-0 and 12-2 for Philadelphia's sixth straight setback. Emanuel Salvo shutout the tail-enders in the first game with four-hit hurling and in the nightcap Lefty Joe Sullivan kept seven hits spaced while his mates blasted out 15 safeties.

Purdue Leading in Men's Golf League

Purdue is leading the pack with 1,792 strokes in the Men's Twilight league at Butte des Morts Golf club. Competition will continue Thursday afternoon with the following teams attempting to improve their positions: Minnesota 1,852, Iowa 1,873, Northwestern 1,883, Chicago 1,915, Michigan 1,919, Ohio 1,927, Notre Dame 1,961, Wisconsin 1,972, Indiana 2,035, Illinois 2,102.

Burt Manser had a low net of 31 while Ed Schrage and John Neller each had 32s last week.

3 Hometown Players Sign With Kenosha

Kenosha —(P)—Coach John Reis today announced the signing of three hometown players for 1940 duty with the Kenosha Cardinals football squad in the American professional league.

They are Tony Monak, 215-pound center; Eddie Hartack, 175-pound halfback; and Mario Rozzoni, 200-pound tackle.

The Cardinals open Sept. 18 against the Columbus, Ohio, Bullies.

A's End Win Streaks

Philadelphia —(P)—Stopping pitchers' winning streaks is old stuff to the Philadelphia Athletics. When they stopped Buck Newsom's chain of victories at 13 games, fans recalled that it was the Athletics who, a few years ago, ended Schoolboy Rowe's string after it had reached the league's top mark, 16 in a row.

Pegler Sees No Reason for Mrs. Big's Guild Membership

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York — Mrs. Roosevelt wrote in her column last Saturday that she had just read a criticism of the American Newspaper Guild, which is run by the communists, and that, although she agreed with much of it, she would not resign because she had made no effort to contribute anything as a member.

Pegler

"I am going to try to do so in the future," Mrs. Roosevelt wrote, "because I believe that until you have done your very best to make an organization useful you have no right to leave it."

If Mrs. Roosevelt knew as much as she should about this Trojan horse to which she has decided to continue to pitch hay she would be aware that the question whether she will leave it is not for her to decide. The guild constitution contains a trick, or man-trap, clause, stealthily concealed beneath the hypocritical protestations of high purpose and the standard constitutional provisions, which forbids resignation and provides expulsion for those who attempt to do so. I will go into that another time, but for today on this point will admit that, of course, this trap couldn't hold her because she is a privileged character who has no right to belong to a guild of newspaper workers, anyway.

Mrs. Roosevelt is no more eligible for membership in the newspaper guild in any honest interpretation of the terms of eligibility than I am for membership in the D.A.R., a thoroughly American group from which she resigned with resounding political eclat, apparently having decided that she had done her very best to make it useful.

Mrs. Roosevelt was taken into the guild in an honorary status for the ballyhoo value of her adherence. The section of eligibility says that membership shall be for persons who are gainfully employed and devotes the major part of her time to their employment in the business. That Mrs. Roosevelt's employment as a columnist is gainful I will readily grant, but nobody will believe, and I doubt that anyone would be dishonest enough to assert, that she devotes the major part of her time to journalism, or, to put it more fairly, that journalism is her occupation.

This union was intended for newspaper people, and, although the communists have opened its doors to communists of miscellaneous occupations for the purpose of overwhelming by force of numbers the journalists trapped in the guild, Mrs. Roosevelt still remains ineligible because her implication in journalism is strictly an egg-money activity. The same material written by Mrs. George Spelvin never would have been printed, much less paid for, and it is significant that her genius lay dormant until the election of 1932.

She's Presidents. Wife So She's A Member
It comes down to this, therefore: that the prestige of the presidency of the United States is here being used to give aid and comfort to a group of communist conspirators to the detriment and distress of a great many decent, loyal Americans employed as journalists. Only because she is the wife of the president is Mrs. Roosevelt gainfully employed as a journalist, and only because she is the president's wife is she a member of the newspaper guild.

Moreover, when she did join a special reservation was made for her whereby, contrary to the constitution and in contrast to the terms imposed on legitimate members, she would not be required to go on strike if one should be called to compel the reinstatement of an incorrigible, incompetent and lazy office boy or for any other reason. The regular newspaper men and women, however, would be required to strike and lose pay, and perhaps eventually their living jobs or suffer the most hateful persecution—physical and mental—at the hands of the communist politicians in control.

Mrs. Roosevelt just doesn't belong, and the first step toward making the guild useful would be to get rid of the ineligible, starting with her.

Sunday Neenah comes to the village as the Valley league comes to a close. Within a week or ten days Kimberly will play a booster game here with Kaukauna.

Woman Solves Riddle of How to Keep Hubbie Home

BY DOROTHY DIX

The grief of untold numbers of women is the philandering husband, and the one thing they desire to know more than anything else in the world is how to deal with him. Millions of wives have tried every remedy from prayers to shotguns on their wandering spouses. They have wept, cajoled, tried to understand the "other woman" and use her technique upon them without avail. They have raged and stormed and made scenes and threatened divorce without stopping them from chasing every petticoat that fluttered down the street. They can't keep their husbands under lock and key. They can't eliminate all the women who are younger and better-looking than themselves. They can't get a law passed making it compulsory for husbands to wear blinders. Watching and spying does no good because every system of espionage breaks down. Tears only soften a man's heart before marriage. Afterward they make him mad. Reproach is worse than useless. Love's labor is lost in starving and stewing and suffering in beauty parlors in an effort to become a glamour girl to a man who has ceased to look at one. Hence what to do with the husband with the roving eye and keep his vision focused on Friend Wife instead of a platinum blonde is one of the major problems with which women have to grapple in matrimony and to which they can find no answer.

Dorothy Dix

For not even the lady who cuts the cards, nor the occult crystalgazer, nor Madame Queen, the renowned clairvoyant who sees a dark woman who means trouble for them on their horizon, can tell them how to remove this menace to their happiness.

Therefore, it will be tidings of great joy to many harassed matrons to learn that one woman has solved the riddle of how to keep a husband nailed to his own fireside and that she passes on her tip to other suffering sisters. She writes:

"I am married to a very handsome and attractive man, who has a way with the ladies and who was always having affairs with some good-looking charmer about 10 years younger and 20 pounds lighter than I am.

"I was convinced that he didn't really love any of these pashas, and that whatever of affection he possessed belonged to me. He was just a male butterfly that liked to roam from flower to flower and have romantic adventures. All the same, it got on my nerves and took all of his money, so I determined to stop it.

"This is the way I did it. I went down town and bought him a $200 ring, on which I agreed that he should pay $5 a week. In another store I bought him a $250 watch, which he was also to pay for at $5 a week. Then I bought him a pin at $250 on the same terms.

"Then I bought him some vacant lots at $500 apiece, to be paid for at $10 a month. And I figured out that by the time he got through paying all of these installments every month he wouldn't have enough money left to give the Lady Friend many good times or take her about much.

"Of course, he was furious, but I told him that if his girl really loved him she wouldn't care about the money, and that this was a good way to test her affection. Well, I guessed right. As soon as she found out that there were no more presents and that the best he could do was to take her to a neighboring movie and a hamburger stand for supper, she quit him cold.

"That was 15 years ago, and I have never had to worry about women since. And the jewelry and the lots are all paid for and we are very happy, and he has quite a reputation as a homekeeping husband."

I heartily endorse this lady's plan for curing a philandering husband. There is no other such safeguard against temptation as the lack of the price. And nothing makes the predatory sisterhood lose interest in a man so quickly as for him to be able to show them a good time and buy them fur coats and emerald bracelets. Any man is immune from the gold-diggers who have only small change in his pockets.

Secret Marriages Never Work Out

Dear Miss Dix—I am engaged to a young man who does not make enough money for us to live on. He hasn't even a steady job, but he wants me to marry him secretly, as he works out of town and cannot see me often, and he is afraid he will lose me, being so far away. He does not want to wait, and if I put him off he will think I do not want to marry him at all. What shall I do?

Answer: Don't marry secretly. No matter how unwise a marriage is, if you are going to do it, do it honestly and openly and decently in the sight of all men. There is always something a little suspicious about a secret marriage that you have to explain and apologize for that makes you regret it as long as you live. Don't marry secretly, and don't marry at all until you are in a better position to marry than you are

Suit Signal Often Leads To Mix-Up

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The suit preference signal is a comparatively new device (only a few years old) which has created great controversy among experts and average players alike. Briefly, this convention can be defined as "an unnecessarily high card used in leading or in following suit, asking partner to shift to the higher of the two suits other than trump." Under certain conditions, the lead or follow suit play of a very low card asks the shift to the lower of the two suits.

Like every other convention of bidding or play, this may be either a boon or boomerang, depending on the skill with which it is employed. Unfortunately, it is usually misemployed, leading to confusion rather than clarity. That it can be of great value, however, when treated with intelligence, is evidenced by the following deal:

House of Stuart

If you look into the history of a royal family, you may find a great deal of adventure and sadness, but you will have to search a long time to match the story of the House of Stuart.

Eight centuries ago, a young noble was sent to Scotland by the English king. The Normans had held power in England for nearly a hundred years, and had obtained some control over the Scots.

The young noble was named Walter, and he was given a great deal of land in Scotland. The king also gave him the office of Steward of Scotland.

Walter's son held the same office, and so did his grandson and great-grandson. That is the reason for the family name of the House of Stuart, or Stewart. The French spelling was Stuart, and that is how it is most often spelled in history books.

Battle scene in time of first Stuart king.

As time went on, the Stuarts came to feel more Scottish than English. They fought in battles for the freedom of Scotland.

In the year 1315, one of the Stuarts married a princess, Marjorie, the daughter of Robert Bruce. A son of this marriage at length came to the Scottish throne.

From that time onward, there was a line of Stuart kings in Scotland. I shall give the story of some of them in short form today. It is a tale of strange tragedy.

The second Stuart king lost one son by murder, and another became a prisoner of war. The third Stuart was a prisoner for 18 years, and at length was murdered. The fourth was killed in the siege of a city.

The fifth Stuart king suffered under a rebellion by his own son, and the sixth was slain on the battlefield.

Later came Mary, Queen of Scots, who was three times a widow, and who was held prisoner for 20 years. At last, she was charged with treason by Elizabeth, and was put to death.

Then came a quick change of fortune. The son of Mary, Queen of Scots, was given the English throne, ruling both England and Scotland.

Alfalfa, Clover Stubble Help Rye

If Grain Is Drilled
Into Fields in Fall,
Better Crop Results

Alfalfa production in Wisconsin is exceptionally large this year, the federal-state crop reporting service has reported to J. F. Magnus, county agent. Estimates for this year show that the state's alfalfa crop will be over two and three quarter million tons. This is 40 per cent larger than the crop harvested last year.

Alfalfa hay production in the state is expected to be more than double the 10-year average production shown for 1929-38. The yield per acre is above that reported for 1939 but is a little below average. Wisconsin is now one of the largest producers of alfalfa hay in the nation with more than a million acres used for the crop.

Clover and timothy hay acreages increased slightly this year. Production of these crops is expected to be nearly 16 per cent above the crop harvested last year. This is about 32 per cent more than the state's 10 year average. Clover and timothy acreages are estimated at 2,354,000 acres and the production at 3,544,000 tons. Yields per acre of clover and timothy are slightly above average for Wisconsin this year.

Ervin Tesch Herd Highest During July

Average 1,061 Pounds
Of Milk, 33.4 of Fat;
Bolinski Cow Is Best

The grade Holstein herd owned by Ervin Tesch of New London averaged 1,061 pounds of milk or 33.4 pounds of butterfat to lead the Dairy Herd Improvement association No. 7 during July, according to Martin Fuerst, tester.

A Guernsey cow owned by Ben Bolinski's farm No. 1 was highest, with 1,311 milk or 66.9 pounds of butterfat.

The next four herds, with pounds of milk given first and butterfat next, were as follows: Gustave Mentzel, New London, Holsteins, 811, 31.5; Ben Bolinski, New London, (farm No. 1, Guernseys, 551, 31; Jerry Young, Shiocton, Holsteins, 683, 28; Albert Knapp, New London, Holsteins, 870, 28.4.

The next four cows, with milk and butterfat figures given, were owned by the following members: Ervin Tesch, 2,034, 61; Ben Bolinski, 1,228, 58; Jerry Young, 1,271, 52.1; Frank Jepson 1054 50.6.

The number of 40-pound cows owned by members are as follows: Clarence Fuerst five; Albert Knapp, Ben Bolinski (farm No. 1), Frank Jepson, Jerry Young, four each; Harvey Buboltz, Ervin Tesch, Ben Bolinski (farm No. 2), three each; George Knapp, Gustave Mentzel, Frank Young, two each; Albert Klug, Edwin Krause, one each.

N. Y. Leads in Dairy Income

Wisconsin Slips to Second Place Among States During 1939

Dairy farmers of New York state now lead the nation in amount of annual dairy income, according to a recent report made public by the federal bureau of agricultural economics and received at the office of J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent.

Reports show that the 1939 total dairy income of New York state's farmers, including products used on the farm, was $144,038,000. The gross farm income of New York's dairymen including $3,265,000 in government payments, was $346,891,000.

Dairy farmers of Wisconsin, who previously had led all other states, suffered a decline in annual dairy income from $150,571,000 in 1938 to $142,334,000 in 1939. Wisconsin, however still ranks first from the standpoint of total gross farm income.

Federal Seed Law For Labeling Will Take Effect Aug. 9

Federal seed act requirements for labeling vegetable seeds shipped in interstate commerce become effective August 8, according to an agricultural marketing service bulletin received by J. F. Magnus, county agent. After this date, all vegetable seed coming within the regulations of the act must be properly labeled, honestly advertised, and honestly represented in every way.

Each bag, carton, or packet of vegetable seed shipped across state lines must show the kind and variety of seed in the package. It must also bear the name and address of the code designation of the person or organization shipping the seed.

If the seed is up to the standard of germinability set by the federal department of agriculture, no specific statement as to germination needs to be shown. If it is not up to the department's standard, however, it must be labeled to show percentage of germination, date of the test, and in plainly printed letters "below standard."

Properly Built Floors Help Farmer and Stock Keep Happy

Properly built floors are not only easier to clean but are more sanitary and are drier and warmer in cold weather. Max LaRock, extension agricultural engineer at the Wisconsin college of agriculture, tells Wisconsin farmers.

If the floor is too high above the ground line, there will be loss of heat in winter through the floor as well as through the exposed foundation.

LaRock makes the following suggestions for the laying of concrete floors this fall:

Remove loose top soil and, if necessary, enough dirt to allow for at least a 6-inch gravel fill.

If large field rock is used for deep fills, the space between the rock and for at least three or four inches above should be filled with gravel. Good, hard, burned cinders are satisfactory. Where there is a likelihood of the ground being damp, or there is a surface water drainage, place a layer of tough, waterproof paper over the fill before placing the concrete. This prevents moisture from coming in contact with the bottom of the concrete.

In hog houses where early litters are raised, a warmer floor can be obtained by the use of waterproof, rigid insulation board. Such a floor would require a bottom layer of concrete upon which the insulation is placed, and this covered with a top layer of concrete. This construction is only in the pen areas. For sanitary reasons the outside walls of a hog house are usually made of concrete for about 18 inches above the floor line. To prevent heat losses through this wall, a layer of the same waterproof insulating material can be placed in the center of the wall to extend four to six inches below the floor line.

Ashman Herd Tests Highest

Average of 1,045 Lbs.
Of Milk or 39.5 of Butterfat for July

The Arnold Ashman herd, with an average of 1,045 pounds of milk or 39.5 pounds of butterfat, led the Black Creek-Cicero Dairy Herd Improvement association during July, according to William Yonkman, field man.

Ashman also had the high cow for the month, the animal producing 1,385 pounds of milk or 62.3 pounds of butterfat.

The next high herds, with average pounds of milk given first and butterfat second, follow: Elmer Gosse (Guernsey) 816, 37.7; George Stingle (Guernsey) 949, 35.8; Reuben Thiel (Guernsey) 796, 34; Robert Mueller (Brown Swiss) 894, 33.1; Albert Jeske (Brown Swiss) 808, 33.

The next high cows and their production records follow: Single, Guernsey, 1,791, 60.8; Herman Miller and Son, Guernsey, 1,348 59.3; Guy Daniels, Guernsey 1,373, 57.6; Elmer Gosse, Guernsey, 1,153 56.7; C. Wussow Guernsey, 1,370, 55.1.

what's wrong with him," she complained, dabbing at her eyes with a wisp of lace. "Perhaps his success has unbalanced him."

"I hope so," said Gregory Knowles. "Give the Countess my best regards when you see her."

Lenore glared at both men, turned with still dignity into the house, leaving them alone.

"Where is Jan?" Derek asked, suddenly wanting to be with her, his heart still thudding strangely from the shock of Lenore's assertion that Jan loved him, even though he didn't for a moment believe it.

"Jenkins is driving her home. She came with me just now to tell you goodnight, but evidently decided not to intrude on the charming scene you presented with Lenore in this prop moonlight! Derek, you're a fool!" He stamped off into the garden.

Derek rested his long, lazy length on the wide railing, not feeling the chill breeze on his face, not hearing the noise from within the house. So Jan thought he and Lenore — could Lenore possibly be right about Jan? No. Yes. Perhaps. Damm it all, he didn't want Jan laboring under false delusions! And why didn't he?

His eyes closed. He was again, in fancy, living in the old red house, surrounded by crouching hamburger stands and riotous confusion. He saw Jan, a battered straw hat over her sunburned face coming in with a morning's catch of fish. Jan, miserable and forlorn over Lance and Rose and Norma; Jan, dancing in his arms, six dances for a quarter. Clinging to him on the roller coaster. Telling him he was no good. Adopting him into her family, adding his burden to her already heavily loaded young shoulders, ordering him to work, to practice, to rehabilitate himself, and all of the time knowing nothing about him, taking him as was! Wait—that night she'd bawled him out, hadn't she said—"wanted to help you. I had faith in you." Yes, she had. He'd forgotten, lost himself in her music, put her words away in a safety deposit vault of his mind determined for months to think of nothing but his beloved Concerto, his gift for creating which had miraculously returned. And not so miraculously either. Jan had awakened him, given him spiritual as well as physical life.

What if something should happen to her, all alone in New York? He stood up, trembling all over with imagined shock and horror, feeling empty and lost and alone in a world he neither trusted nor liked.

"I love her," he said out loud, astonished to hear himself saying those three words. "I love her, I'm going to tell her so, and I hope Lenore, for once in her life, told the truth!"

Alfalfa Crop in State Is Good

Expect Harvest Will
Be 40 Per Cent Above

Rye is being put to a new and important use on Wisconsin farms, according to J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent.

Tests conducted for several years at the experiment station at Spooner and other state branch stations are showing that rye if drilled in old alfalfa or sweet clover stubble in the fall will use to advantage the nitrogen which these crops have stored up at the surface of the soil. The extra growth which rye makes from this nitrogen not only gives extra good fall and the earliest spring pasture, but may be plowed under as a green manure crop to build up the soil.

Rye when used for this purpose is simply drilled in old alfalfa or sweet clover stubble at the rate of from six to eight pecks to the acre. By drilling in the rye and leaving what few plants of alfalfa or sweet clover remain to grow up with the rye, a better pasture is obtained than rye alone. George M. Briggs, extension agronomist, advises that if this rye is seeded in late July or before the middle of August, it will produce considerable fall pasture and even good spring pasture.

Soil Payments to Fall Behind 1939

Conservation payments under the 1904 triple "A" farm program will be slightly smaller than they were in 1939, according to a notice received at the office of J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent.

Somewhat larger participation than estimated for 1940 and the decrease in available funds make the large revisions necessary. Payments which are under $200, after being computed at the revised rate, will be increased in accordance with the small payment provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment act. The amount of money available for 1940 payments was decreased as a result of the transfer of 1940 funds for use on the 1939 program. This transfer was made necessary by larger than anticipated participation in the 1939 program and to cover advances in connection with the grant of aid and crop insurance programs for that year.

Air Conditioning Even Gets Into Hen Houses

They are air conditioning poultry houses out in California. And the hens appreciate this new comfort. Coolers in poultry houses raised egg production during July, August, and September in experiments conducted by the University of California with evaporator type coolers which changed the air once a

Warns Against Potato Blight

Moist Conditions are Making the Disease
Likely, Vaughan Says

A warning against the possibility of a late potato blight has been issued by R. E. Vaughan, extension plant pathologist at the Wisconsin college of agriculture.

Vaughan has reported in a bulletin to P. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent, that recent heavy rains and continued favorable moisture conditions are making the disease a danger in Wisconsin potato fields. The blight was observed in northern Wisconsin as early as July 26.

Farmers with spray equipment are accordingly advised to keep their vines covered during the period of greatest danger. This means during August and early September, Vaughan said. Early potato varieties may be far enough along so that they will not be greatly damaged.

Bordeaux mixture is the recommended spray for infected fields, he points out. In a wet season, Bordeaux mixture has been found at times to check the disease to the extent of holding what would otherwise be a 90 per cent infection down to a 5 or 10 per cent infection.

minute. Hen mortality was lower in the cooled houses, where coolers kept the temperature at less than 90 degrees even on days when the outside temperature was up to 110.
